County Recreation Project Receives Approval

$250,000 TO BE EXPENDED ON PROJECT

Instructors Under Former
Set-up Are Scheduled
To Get Employment

Orange county's recreation project, estimated at approximately $250,000 will be resumed, probably December 11, according to an announcement today from the office of Dan Mulherson, county manager for the WPA. The project was discontinued several months ago when funds, provided under the original project, were exhausted.

New Project Policy
The new project, according to WPA officials, was sent in as a county project and turned down when it was decided to combine the Orange county proposal with a similar program from San Diego as a district project. This new policy has been adopted for recreational projects all over the state.

Mulherson was notified today that presidential approval had been given the district program and that funds probably would be available to start work by December 11.

Guards Eliminated
While all details of the new project, as finally approved, are not known in Santa Ana, it is definitely known that the school

TAKE OVER RAIL EMPIRE

U. S. SUPPORTS NEW ITALIAN EMPIRE BACKED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—(UP)—The United States has cast its moral support definitely on the side of Europe's two great democracies, France and Great Britain, in the world's gathering war storm, it was believed in authoritative quarters here today.

Support has been evidenced in President Roosevelt's speech at the opening session of the Inter-American Peace conference at Buenos Aires; his speech before the Brazilian congress and supreme court at Rio de Janeiro last week, and by the public utterances of Secretary of State Cordell Hull.

Events of the past few weeks will tend to show more and more clearly that President Roosevelt has assumed the role of spokesman for the political philosophies and policies represented by the democratic form of government, diplomatic attaches here said.

NEW ITALIAN EMPIRE BACKED

ROME, Dec. 2.—(UP)—Japan has recognized Italy's conquest of Ethiopia, it was announced officially today.

Japan's action in recognizing the Italian conquest forces one more link in the German-Japanese-Italian front recently presented to the world.

Germany already has recognized the empire set up in Ethiopia by the Italian armistice.

Under the accord announced today, Italy guarantees that Japanese interests in Ethiopia will be protected.

SAN DIEGO SEEKS COLORADO WATER

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 2.—(UP)—City officials and directors of the Metropolitan Water District went into conference today to discuss the plan of supplying San Diego with water from the Colorado river aqueduct.

City Manager R. W. Black, Assistant City Attorney H. B. Daniel and Fred Pyle, hydraulic engineer, represented San Diego at the conference.

San Diego officials said they were considering two plans, one to receive a water supply from the Colorado river aqueduct, and the other from the All-American canal.

51 Per Cent Cut
The United States' total loans during the World War period were $9,850,149,000, and under the agreement of February 3, 1930, the borrowing powers agreed to pay $1,714,344,000 in interest, bringing the total to $11,564,000,000. This represented at 51.3 per cent reduction over the $22,188,000,000 they would have had to pay under the original arrangement over a 62-year period.

FIRES IN NORTH OUT OF CONTROL

SANTA ROSA, Dec. 2.—(UP)—Dry brush and timber land in six California counties burned out of control over wide areas today.

The worst blaze was centered in Pocket canyon, Russian River area, where the southern end of the Odd Fellows' park below Hilton was threatened by flames.

Fires were burning also in Napa, Shasta, Butte, Mendocino and Nevada counties.

Several hundred men were called to battle the Pocket canyon blaze as it crept close to many summer homes located in the Russian river vacation area.

SEARCH STARTED FOR BRITISH FLIER

CAPE TOWN, South Africa, Dec. 2.—(UP)—Searching parties were organized tonight to hunt for James A. Morrison, British flier, who was overdue here on an attempted record-breaking flight from London to Cape Town.

He was last reported circling Cape Agulhas, 100 miles from Table Bay, at 5 p. m. after which there was no news of him.

Some anxiety was expressed, and it was feared he might have made a forced landing on some lonely beach or in the countryside.

COMMERCE BILL TO GET BORAH BACKING

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—(UP)—Sen. William E. Borah, bitter foe of the invalidated NRA, today said he would support in the next congress a proposal for federal incorporation of industries in interstate commerce.

He said he favored legislation along the lines of the O'Mahoney "substitute NRA" bill which provides for federal incorporation.

The Idaho senator indicated his interest in the subject was directed toward possibilities of curbing monopolies rather than revival of NRA principles.

CAMPAIGN ON S. A. DRIVERS OPENS TODAY

Motorists Who Neglect to Stop For Pedestrians
To Get Tickets

A campaign against motorists who fail to stop for pedestrians in cross-walks was under way today upon orders of Chief of Police Floyd W. Howard.

Danger Increased
"With approximately three weeks left before Christmas and with Christmas shoppers out on the streets in large numbers, we feel more care than ever before should be exercised by motorists since the number of pedestrians is far greater now," the chief said. "I have issued instructions to my men to cite all motorists who violate the state vehicle code provision, Section 560-A, which requires that motorists stop for pedestrians in cross-walks."

Signs Installed
As a reminder that the orange cross-walk lines are painted at Main street intersections for a purpose, signs were placed at Second, Third, Fifth and Sixth streets today, where those thoroughfares intersect Main street, stating that motorists must stop when pedestrians are in the cross-walks.

Sergeant B. A. Hershey, head of the motorcycle squad, instructed his men to be particularly watchful for violations of Section 560-A of the vehicle code and to issue citations to all violators. He noted that motorists here have become somewhat careless in the matter of stopping for pedestrians, crossing the streets at intersections.

Even though there are no orange-colored lines painted at intersections, it is the duty of motorists to stop for pedestrians who may be crossing the street there, officers said.

Exceptions Cited
Exceptions are that whenever any pedestrian crosses a roadway other than by means of a pedestrian.

SEEK TO BAR WAR MATERIAL

LONDON, Dec. 2.—(UP)—Envoys of 27 nations, meeting as a neutrality committee, decided today to investigate activity of foreign volunteers in the Spanish civil war and to propose to the contending factions a drastic plan to exclude foreign war material.

Rebels Seek Germans
As the committee met, it was learned that information had reached London which purported to show that volunteers for tank units to fight on the Nationalist side were being sought at German army headquarters.

Lord Plymouth, British chairman of the neutrality committee, in a speech announced that Great Britain was gravely anxious over the dispatch of foreign military volunteers to Spain.

The committee named a subcommittee to consider the matter and ordered it to meet Friday morning.

To Dispatch Plan
It was voted also to send through Great Britain to Francisco Largo Caballero, premier of the Loyalist government, and Gen. Francisco Franco, Nationalist dictator, a plan which would seek to prevent the entry into land or sea of war material into Spain.

It was understood that Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden would dispatch the plan to Valencia, the Burgos, capitals of the Loyalist and Nationalist governments, with a request for approval.

24 PLANES OF INSURGENTS MAKE NEW RAID ON MADRID; USE OF GAS CHARGED TODAY

MADRID, Dec. 2.—(UP)—Twenty-four insurgent war planes roared over this beleaguered capital today and poured death from the skies on the scurrying civilian population in the midst of the greatest battle of the civil war.

30 Bombs Dropped
Nine silver and black three-motored bombers and 15 silver fighters dropped approximately 30 bombs around University City, where Loyalist and Nationalist troops are locked in combat.

The buildings of Madrid trembled. Women and children—screaming by their menfolk in common hatred of the invader and refusing to take refuge on the coast—fled into bomb-proof shelters, subways, cellars and doorways when the first bomb rattled the city's windows.

The formidable enemy fleet flew over in perfect formation. It was one of the greatest mass air raids of a big city in the history of warfare.

Anti-aircraft guns popped futilely. The raid, designed more to terrorize the populace than for its military effectiveness, served only to intensify the hatred seething in the capital.

This hatred was enhanced earlier by charges that the Nationalists, desperate, were using gas in their attack to offset the sudden change in the course of the war, brought about by a resurgence of Loyalist resistance.

The Loyalists, fortified by strong foreign aid, have turned from being cornered fugitives into a force on the full offensive.

Many casualties occurred and terrific damage was done in this morning's bombing of the district around University City. The 30 or more bombs, mostly incendiary, dropped in the Arqueles, Moncloa and Pasajes districts.

The bombing was so heavy that the entire city was shaken. The windows of the United States embassy, more than a mile from the scene, rattled violently every time a bomb fell.

UNIONS ACCUSE SHIP CONCERNS

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 2.—(UP)—Organized labor today threw its weight behind the Pacific Coast maritime strike in a resolution adopted by the San Francisco Labor council endorsing the action of the dock and seamen unions and placing responsibility for continuance of the strike "entirely with the 'big three' shipowners."

Three Lines Named
The companies charged with continuance of the strike were named as "the government subsidized American Hawaiian, Matson and Dollar steamship companies."

The resolution was adopted unanimously by the council delegates and went to the executive committee for signing today by Ed.

The meeting was called after a conference between A. G. Franklin, chairman of the growers' committee, and Major W. S. Everts, of the Canners' League of California.

OPPOSES PLAN

Sen. William Borah, who declared today he is opposed to any downward revision of the French debt.

BORAH ATTACKS DEBT PROPOSAL

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—(UP)—Sen. William E. Borah, R., Ida., returning to Washington today, denounced bluntly any proposal for revision of the war debts such as has emanated from Paris.

Borah said he was "utterly opposed" to any downward revision of the French war debt when asked directly as to his opinion of the move for a new settlement by France.

Borah is the ranking Republican member of the senate foreign relations committee and for years has played an important part in legislation affecting foreign relations, particularly the debts owed to the United States.

The Idaho senator remarked caustically as he stepped from a Chicago train that "we settled with France once at 49 cents on the dollar and they signed an agreement with us to that effect."

He indicated belief that in view of French repudiation of the previous settlement there was no reason to believe that a new settlement would stand up any better.

$3,000,000 ADDED TO RESERVES FUND

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 2.—(UP)—More than $3,000,000 was poured into the state unemployment reserves fund in the past two days since a decision of the California Supreme Court upheld the constitutionality of the state act.

Carl L. Hyde, executive secretary of the Unemployment Reserves commission, said the contributions had been withheld by employers pending a ruling on the act.

"Some individual checks amounted to more than $100,000," he said.

"Employers throughout the state are remitting now to avoid further incurring the one per cent a month penalty assessed for delinquent contributions."

Total contributions for the year will amount to $15,000,000 if all employers affected by the act participate, Hyde said.

TWO NEW TRAINS FOR COAST SERVICE

CHICAGO, Dec. 2.—(UP)—Pullman, Inc., will start immediate construction of two new lightweight streamlined Diesel trains for service on the Chicago-Los Angeles and Chicago-San Francisco runs, according to a joint announcement by A. D. McDonald, Fred W. Sargent and Carl R. Gray, presidents respectively of the Southern Pacific, Chicago and Northwestern and Union Pacific lines.

The new trains will cost approximately $3,000,000, and will have the largest Diesel plants in railroad service. Each train will have 17 cars including the driving unit, and will make the coast-to-Chicago run in 39 3/4 hours, the announcement said.

33 SAILORS POISONED

MARE ISLAND, Cal., Dec. 2.—(UP)—Thirty-three members of the crew of the U. S. S. Memphis, awaiting overhauling here after two years in the Canal Zone, were treated at Mare Island naval hospital and aboard the cruiser today for ptomaine poisoning.

Capt. James L. Kauffman, commanding officer, said he was mystified over the fact 33 men out of 400 others who ate the same mess aboard the ship were stricken.

WALLIS MAY BE DUCHESS OF CORNWALL

Compromise Agreement
May Be Worked Out to Avoid Grave Situation

LONDON, Dec. 2.—(UP)—King Edward's friendship for Mrs. Wallis Simpson, reliable sources said tonight, has resulted in a compromise proposal whereby he could marry her without causing resignation of the cabinet and his forced abdication.

The proposal was understood to be under consideration between the cabinet and the king. It would provide that his majesty would be permitted to marry Mrs. Simpson provided she becomes only the Duchess of Cornwall and not Queen of Great Britain.

New Bill Threatened
One of the gravest constitutional crises in England's history thus could be averted. The government has threatened to force through parliament a bill making it impossible for the king to marry a commoner, and the king has threatened in turn to refuse to sign it.

The cabinet worked overtime to prevent disaster. After the regular weekly meeting, an informal cabinet session was held late tonight in Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin's room in the house of commons.

Baldwin then went to Buckingham Palace and was closeted with the king in what presumably was a critical conference.

F. D. R. LEAVES BUENOS AIRES

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 2.—(UP)—President Roosevelt said farewell to Argentina today, sailing aboard the U.S.S. Indianapolis after a luncheon to President Augustine P. Justo at the United States embassy.

Leaves With High Hopes
The president bade "adios" to delegates to the Inter-American conference for the maintenance of peace, which he came here to open last evening. He left with high hopes for the success of the "American family of nations" in their striving for a new era of economic unity and political peace.

President Justo, invited by President Roosevelt to come to Washington and keep the spirit of "the good neighbor" alive, embraced Mr. Roosevelt when they parted.

An Argentine band played and ships in the harbor sounded their sirens as the Indianapolis moved from the dock. Argentina's last official act was a 21-gun presidential salute to Mr. Roosevelt fired by the river squadron as he sailed down the River Plate toward Uruguay.

In mid-morning, President Roosevelt and other dignitaries attended brief funeral services at the U. S. embassy for Augustus Adolph Gennrich, his personal bodyguard and friend, who fell dead in a restaurant yesterday morning.

CIRCUS MAGNATE CALLED BY DEATH

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—John Ringling, 70, last brother of the famous Ringling brothers circus family, died of bronchial pneumonia in his New York apartment early today.

Ringling, sixth of seven brothers, had been ill only a few days. A his bedside were Ida Ringling North, a sister; John Ringling North, a nephew; Frank Hennessy, life-long friend; Dr. Maurice Costello, his personal physician, two nurses and a chauffeur.

John Ringling, called the greatest est magnate of the sawdust ring, was born a poor boy. At the height of his career he was reputed to have been worth $50,000,000, a fortune which dwindled during his later years.

John and four of his brothers started in the entertainment work by holding "kid" circuses on the vacant lot in Baraboo, Wis., long the winter home of the Ringling circus. In 1884 the show went on the road and bannered under an imposing string of descriptive adjectives. It was a success from the start.

12 BILLIONS DUE ON DEBTS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—(UP)—The United States' stake in the knotty international game to collect the war debts is $12,556,000,000 or more than sufficient to offset the New Deal's tremendous outlays for recovery and relief during the past four years, a survey by the United Press disclosed today.

Installment Due Soon
Another installment on the foreign debt is due December 15, totaling $155,093,373, which includes $35,279,239 in principal and the remainder in interest.

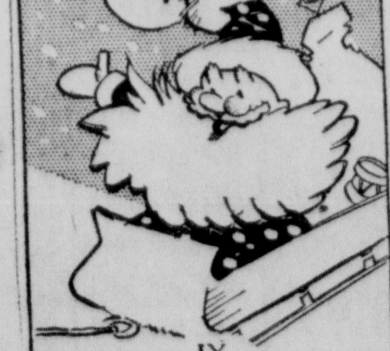

Of the 13 nations, treasury officials expected only diminutive Finland to place its $231,315 on the line. Finland, alone of all the debtors, has fulfilled its obligations faithfully.

The major debtors on the December installment are Great Britain, $17,670,000; France, $22,308,000; Poland, $5,559,000; Belgium, $4,642,000 and Italy $2,141,000.

ONLY 19 MORE SHOPPING DAYS TILL CHRISTMAS

UPSHAW DEATH 73RD FATALITY FOR YEAR 1936

An autopsy performed this morning at the Hilgenfeld funeral home in Anaheim, by Dr. Elizabeth Tock, acting county autopsy surgeon, determined that Lewis P. Uphaw, 73, of 111 West Tenth street, Buena Park, met his death yesterday afternoon at a Linda Vista and Morse streets, a mile northwest of Placentia, beneath the wheels of a truck operated by J. G. Beat, 40, of 423 South Kroeger street, Anaheim.

At first investigation by California Highway Officer Horace Inge and Deputy Coroner Bert Castex, it was believed Uphaw might have been victim of a heart attack and fallen from the truck and beneath the wheels, after his death. But Mrs. Tock's findings determined that external violence, as the rear dual-wheel ran over him, caused his death. His chest was crushed, investigation showed.

Uphaw, who was sitting on the back of the truck, with his back resting against the rear of the truck cab, fell from the truck as it made a right hand turn. He was sitting beside John King, 149 North Lemon, Anaheim, officers learned, King stating that Uphaw made no outcry as he fell. King was lighting a cigarette at the moment and did not see Uphaw until he was in the act of falling. Beat stopped the truck within six or seven feet, but not before the rear wheel had passed over Uphaw.

Clyde Harbert, 125 North Lincoln, Fullerton, also was riding on the truck, beside Beat, in the cab. Uphaw and others have been employed by the county road department. Inquest, Deputy Coroner Castex said, will be held tomorrow at 10 a. m. at Hilgenfeld's.

Uphaw's death is the 73rd in Orange county traffic this year. He survived by his widow, Mrs. Clara G. Uphaw, Buena Park; two children, Lewis M. Uphaw, 12, and Miss Estelle Uphaw, both of Los Angeles, and a brother, Earl L. Uphaw, Weatherford, La. Tex.

WPA PROJECT IS APPROVED

Crossing guards have been eliminated. F. P. Jayne, who will have charge of the project in Orange county, said that the crossing guards had been eliminated on a federal ruling that the guards were performing a duty that is the normal function of the police departments in various cities.

Jayne said that while all provisions of the project, as approved, will not be known until a copy of the revised program is received here, he has been informed that it will include instructors for school playgrounds; music teachers for children in families now on relief; community singing; community recreation for both adults and children and instruction in arts and crafts.

$250,000 Expected

These projects were all included in the original project which was conducted here as a county project, Jayne said, and will be continued. While the exact amount of funds to be expended in Orange county is not known WPA officers here are estimating that it will be at least $250,000 based upon the county project that was sent in to replace the old one and combined with a district proposal.

Jayne also said that, wherever possible, instructors and directors used on the original project will be returned to the new project. The only change to be made, he said, will be replacement of several instructors on the old project who since discontinuance of the project have found private employment.

When lack of finances made it necessary to discontinue the project in Orange county all women were transferred to the county-wide sewing project. The men were placed on labor projects. Upon reopening of the project, however, they will be returned to their former status.

New Set-up Suggested

The new project will be administered under a new set-up placing the termination of policies of the project under control of the State Board of Education. Sigurd Nylander, San Francisco, has been named state recreation director, as assistant to F. Y. McLaughlin, state WPA director. District directors of recreation will administer the program under Nylander, with county representatives of WPA in actual charge of operations in the various counties. Jayne will be in charge of the project here.

Transportation history was made when the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge was formally opened and celebrities occupied the first car to officially cross the new structure. BRIDGES CLAIMS RYAN WORKING WITH OWNERS

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 2.—(UP)—Harry Bridges, militant district president of the International Longshoremen's association, today precipitated an open break between striking Pacific coast longshoremen and maritime groups of Gulf and North Atlantic ports.

In a letter released at San Pedro, Bridges wrote Joseph P. Ryan, president of the International Longshoremen's association at New York, charging Ryan with "collusion with our enemies the shipowners."

Bridges demanded in his letter that I. L. A. members in Atlantic and Gulf ports cease working ships owned by operators against whom Pacific coast maritime unions are now on strike.

YOUNG COUPLES IN "PROXY" MARRIAGE IN JUVENILE COURT

The two youthful couples who tangled with the Orange county law recently as one couple obtained a marriage license for the second couple in a "by proxy" arrangement, were remanded to juvenile court today by action of Judge Kenneth Morrison in Santa Ana justice court upon approval of the couples' attorneys and Assistant District Atty. James Davis.

The action was taken after the court refused to dismiss charges against the couples even though the couple for whom the false marriage license was obtained, later were legally married. Marion Freeman and Catherine (Mrs. Billy) Harris were charged with making false affidavits at the marriage license bureau in obtaining a license for Francis McCormick and Ella Mae Christy to wed. McCormick and Miss Christy, now legally "Mr. and Mrs.," were charged with offering false or forged instrument to be filed of record—following the unlawful marriage. The newlyweds were less than 18 years old.

U. S. SUPPORTS FRANCE, BRITAIN

Mr. Roosevelt's public utterances and those of Hull, particularly since the election, have shown increasingly the trend of this administration to array itself unmistakably against dictatorships of all kinds—Fascist, Nazi, Communist and military—it was said.

Diplomats believe the ultra-cautious moves of the French government toward possible reopening of negotiations for settlement of the French debt to this government are definitely connected with Mr. Roosevelt's stand as democracy's most outspoken champion.

More Than Coincidence

Officials, here and in Paris, would stoutly deny any suggestion that an agreement exists whereby Mr. Roosevelt would attempt in honor of Mrs. Herbert Hoover, each guest wore a crope paper baby bonnet during the evening and played games appropriate to the occasion. Prizes were won by Mrs. Delbert Haines, Mr. and Mrs. T. W. LaMonte.

Attending were Mrs. Claybourne Swift, Mrs. T. W. LaMonte, Mrs. P. B. REVEAL REASON FOR LOW PRICE CHRYSLER CAR

"Walter P. Chrysler's invasion of the low-priced field with a car bearing his name is one of the most significant events of recent motoring history," says J. W. Fraser, vice president of the Chrysler sales division of the Chrysler corporation.

"The advent of the Chrysler Royal, as this new car has been named, is bound to cause a readjustment of value standards all along the line. The opportunity to purchase a car that maintains the Chrysler tradition of quality, performance, safety and beauty at a price within reach of a much larger number of motorists than ever before, is bound to be welcomed. Private pre-showings have already given evidence that there are many thousands of motorists who have longed to drive a Chrysler—a car whose name has been synonymous with the ultimate in quality—but who haven't been able to afford it. Now we have made it possible for these thousands to possess the advantages of Chrysler quality without unbalancing the domestic budget.

"Naturally, it always has been the aim of Chrysler to make its premier quality available to an ever increasing market. This history of our company shows a constant decrease in prices. Always when outstanding features have been introduced in our higher-priced cars we have sought to make them available as quickly as possible in our lower priced products. The time has now arrived when we are able to offer the low-priced Royal a finer performance, greater roominess, more safety factors and more beauty of line and appointment than ever before were found in a car of our make, selling at anything like this price. In fact, it can go even farther and say that in many respects the Royal is a finer car than we ever before offered at any price, with the sole exception of the Airflow.

"The Royal is not built to sell at a price; the price adjusts itself to the car. We are able to get into the low-priced field with this fine car for several very simple and understandable reasons. Among these are the great volume we enjoyed in 1935 and the anticipation of a much increased volume in 1937. When we showed the 1937 line to our dealers, we told them that we expected to double our 1936 production in 1937. They were enthusiastic about the whole line, and particularly about the Royal, which is bound to be the backbone of their business; that they have assured us it can be done.

"We have increased our manufacturing facilities by the addition of several large buildings, one of which measures 980 by 80 feet and by the purchase of much new and improved machinery. The building and machinery installation program involved an expenditure of several millions of dollars. In addition to acquiring new machinery, we have made an extensive rearrangement of our plant layout that will mean greater production of the highest quality work. We have purchased new

MISSING BOAT IS SOUGHT OFF BALBOA

As the aftermath of a terrific wind storm off the ocean which yesterday afternoon sunk one schooner in Newport bay and damaged four other boats, search was being made for the missing motor ship Hi Nellie and its crew of two men, Herb Young and Joe McAuley, of San Pedro.

The Hi Nellie left San Diego Monday at 2 p. m. and has not been sighted since. Coast guard boats and planes today were searching the south coast for the missing boat, fearing it may have met disaster in the blow yesterday.

WALLIS MAY BE MADE DUCHESS

No inkling came from the closed and guarded gates of the palace as to what they discussed.

Events obviously were coming to a head. The public, except those "in the know" was unaware that history was being made. They thought the war in Spain was the big news, and were puzzled by the sudden appearance in the provincial press of articles strongly reminding the king of his royal duties, but without the slightest reference to Mrs. Simpson or what they were driving at.

Editorial Slated

However, it was understood the Times, most influential paper in the British empire, decided to publish an editorial tomorrow. The editorial would criticize the American press for its stories about the king but suggesting that in view of the stories, competent authorities or the king himself should issue a statement clarifying the situation.

It is possible the editorial may be altered in the course of the evening, depending on late developments.

Subject In Open

His majesty was informed at Fort Belvedere, his country residence, early today that the Bishop of Bradford had brought the subject of his romance into the open, and that editorials in the provincial newspapers were informing those able to read between the lines of the behind-the-scenes struggle between him and his cabinet.

The king's private secretary, Maj. Alexander Hardinge, at Buckingham palace, sent for copies of the provincial newspapers and informed the king by telephone.

Then he summoned the attorney general of the Duke of Cornwall, Walter Turner Monckton, who is the king's legal adviser.

Talk that the cabinet might resign led to speculation as to whether the king might in defiance summon a labor government to carry out whatever his wishes may be. However, it was understood his opponents have blocked that by making a secret agreement with Clement R. Attlee, leader of the labor party, under which Attlee would refuse to form a cabinet if the Baldwin ministry resigns on a constitutional question.

UPHOLDS JUDGMENT OF LOWER COURT

Superior Judge James L. Allen yesterday upheld the decision of justice K. E. Morrison, of Santa Ana, awarding judgment for $488.07 to I. Fields, Santa Ana jeweler, against the Trust Fruit buying company, of Fullerton, for alleged breach of an agreement to buy oranges from the Fields ranch at Placentia, in 1935.

The case originated in Anaheim justice court in August, 1935, when Jusco sued Fields for $110 alleged due.

In a cross-complaint, Fields stated that the $110 had been paid him on an agreement to buy his fruit for $1400, which was not fulfilled. He finally sold his fruit elsewhere, to save as much damage as possible, but lost $488.07, he claimed.

This amount exceeded the jurisdiction of Anaheim court, so the case was transferred to Santa Ana court, where Justice Morrison awarded Fields the amount asked, as then appealed.

TUBERCULOSIS SEALS NOT RED CROSS SEALS

Because some confusion still exists regarding the sponsorship of the Christmas Seal sale and the uses to which money raised by the Christmas Seals is put, the California Tuberculosis association, which is carrying on the Christmas Seal sale campaign in this state, has issued the following statement:

"The tuberculosis Christmas Seals are erroneously called by some 'Red Cross Seals.' Christ, mas Seals do bear a red cross, but it is the double-barred cross, the international emblem of tuberculosis work, used on Christmas Seals issued by nearly 40 countries united in the International Union Against Tuberculosis.

"Originally Christmas Seals, in the United States, were 'Red Cross Seals.' The first Christmas Seal sale, in 1907, and the first two national Christmas Seal sales, in 1908 and 1909, were put on by the American Red Cross, the sums derived from these sales being devoted to tuberculosis work.

"In 1904 the National Tuberculosis association, a voluntary organization of physicians, laymen and associations, was formed for the purpose of studying, controlling and treating tuberculosis. In 1910 this younger organization became a partner of the American Red Cross, conducting the Christmas Seal sale, through the aid of its own local associations and the aid of the local Red Cross chapters, and was in charge of the expenditure of the funds received for programs of tuberculosis prevention. The American Red Cross gave to the partnership its endorsement of the work, the use of its nationally known emblem, and its general support.

"Following the 1919 sale, when the Christmas seal bore both the red cross emblem and the double-barred cross, the tuberculosis association and the American Red Cross was dissolved. Since 1920, the seals have been Tuberculosis Christmas Seals; there are no longer any 'Red Cross Seals.'

"At the present time there are in this country the parent organization, the National Tuberculosis association; state associations, of which the California Tuberculosis association is one; territorial tuberculosis associations in Hawaii and Alaska; and more than 2000 local city and county tuberculosis associations. Christmas Seals are sold only by the local city and county tuberculosis associations, the money received being spent in the community from which it is raised in programs designed for the prevention and control of tuberculosis and the general strengthening of all public health services. A portion of the money raised is sent to the state and the national tuberculosis associations for research, field service and supplies which the local tuberculosis associations could not afford to carry on themselves.

"The double-barred cross is the copyrighted property of the National Tuberculosis association. It cannot be used in California, except on the expressed permission of the representative director of the National Tuberculosis association for this state. In this way, misuse of the double-barred cross will be found on each Christmas Seal, which are also copyrighted. Those who contribute to this campaign through the purchase of Christmas Seals know that their money will be received by the authorized representatives of the California and of the National Tuberculosis associations and that this money will be spent for tuberculosis control programs meeting standards set up by the state and national tuberculosis associations.

AID TO RELIEF OF PSORIASIS SYMPTOMS

The itching and irritation of psoriasis is readily relieved by Resinol Ointment, an old formula containing ingredients well known to physicians for their effectiveness.

To get best results, wash off the scales with a pure, mild soap. Resinol Soap is gently medicated and free from excess alkali. Use it with warm water, then rinse and pat dry.

Spread Resinol Ointment evenly over the surface, letting it remain for several hours during the day and overnight. Note how quickly its oily base enables the Resinol medication to soothe the angry skin.

Even when the rash begins to fade, do not stop using Resinol too soon. The eruptions of psoriasis have a tendency to recur. For this reason it is advisable to continue Resinol applications as long as there is any trace of irritation.

Get Resinol Ointment and Soap at any drug store. Sample free. Write Resinol, Dept. 19, Balto., Md.

TRANSPORTATION FACILITIES SUBJECT OF COAST CONCLAVE

Plans for a thorough study of transportation facilities and methods in Orange county, and particularly along the coast were discussed at a meeting of representatives of county coast communities. The meeting was held in Balboa.

Organizing a subsidiary committee of the Orange County Coast Association, members of the group elected B. W. Spencer, Laguna Beach, chairman and Howard I. Wood, secretary of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce, secretary.

Purpose of the study will be to attempt the working out of an improvement in transportation facilities that will make possible development of the coast area and all of the county as a residential area for commuters to Los Angeles.

The group unanimously passed a resolution which read: "Believing it is time to review the entire system and methods of transportation in Orange County, and particularly along the coast line, this committee resolves itself into a group to make a thorough study and present recommendations on the subject."

The chairman and secretary were instructed to confer with the Orange County Planning Commission with a view to securing cooperation of that body in a scientific study of transportation needs of the county.

It was brought out in the discussion during the meeting that territory within one hour's commuting distance is always considered a part of the metropolitan area of a large city. It was also brought out that under fast transportation now possible with new and modern rolling stock, there is no part of Orange county which could not be reached within an hour to and from Los Angeles. It was generally felt that Orange county could and should meet the new automotive commuters' frontier of Los Angeles. Several others of those present pointed out the fact that Orange county is not generally looked upon as being within the metropolitan area of Los Angeles, but that in Chicago and New York territories much farther from the heart of those cities than is Orange county from Los Angeles are served by fast, rapid commuters' transportation, and are important parts of the metropolitan areas.

Residential Area
Other speakers brought out the point that the Orange county coast is an attractive all-year round residential area and that, with adequate transportation, the future development of the coast would be on an all-year basis.

Members of the committee attending the conference were: David I. Stoddard, Bank of America, Santa Clemente, representing Capital Company interests; Robert L. Callis, San Juan Capistrano; D. W. Leyden, Doheny Park; Roy W. Peacock and D. W. Spencer, Laguna Beach; Paul A. Palmer, Lido Isle; Harry D. Hyde, Balboa; S. H. White and William Gallienne, Huntington Beach; Charles A. Bland, Long Beach; Russell J. Vis and E. H. Bauersack, Los Angeles, representing the Sherman Chandler interests at Dana Point; Harry Welch, secretary of the Orange County Coast Association, Newport Beach; and Rex Kennedy, president, and Howard I. Wood, secretary of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce.

Continuing its probe of the Eden Refinery road oil contract, which was injected sensationally into the late political campaign when several samples of road oil furnished the county were found to be defective, the county grand jury today summoned J. F. Burke, former Santa Ana publisher, and Chairman John Mitchell, of the county board of supervisors.

Burke presumably was questioned regarding his supposed knowledge of the defective oil samples, a criminal complaint having been filed against him by Supervisor W. C. Jerome, of Santa Ana, after a Santa Ana publication had printed an anonymous political attack upon the supervisor, based upon the road oil contract with the Eden Refinery, in which Jerome's son, Don Jerome, was a partner. Jerome's complaint charged that Burke was connected with the published material. The case is set for hearing in Santa Ana justice court December 9.

Chairman Mitchell. It was believed, also was summoned for information he might give regarding the road oil matter. He was closed with the grand jury for more than an hour.

Prior to his appearance before the grand jury, Chairman Mitchell intimated that he was ready and willing to tell the grand jury not only about road oil, but about other matters if it wished.

"I've been investigating other things, too," he said. "If they want to ask me about them."

One of these matters, he indicated, was private use of county automobiles by county officials and employees, a matter that the last grand jury touched upon.

ED COURDON JOINS REID MOTOR FIRM

Eddie Courdon, director of the American Legion Drum and Bugle Corps in Santa Ana today entered the employ of the Reid Motor company, Buick dealer here.

Courdon, who is well known throughout Orange county formerly was employed by Byrne Motor company. "I always have been a booster for the Buick car," said Courdon today. "Even when I owned or sold higher priced automobiles I always had a warm feeling for the Buick. I know what is behind them. I know what they can do. I know that General Motors has put its best Buick in the field in the 1937 model. I am glad to tie up with the Reid Motor company and especially with W. R. 'Stormy' Gordon. With business conditions definitely headed upward I look for a good year for myself and Buicks."

Continuing its probe of the Eden Refinery road oil contract, which was injected sensationally into the late political campaign when several samples of road oil furnished the county were found to be defective, the county grand jury today summoned J. F. Burke, former Santa Ana publisher, and Chairman John Mitchell, of the county board of supervisors.

Burke presumably was questioned regarding his supposed knowledge of the defective oil samples, a criminal complaint having been filed against him by Supervisor W. C. Jerome, of Santa Ana, after a Santa Ana publication had printed an anonymous political attack upon the supervisor, based upon the road oil contract with the Eden Refinery, in which Jerome's son, Don Jerome, was a partner. Jerome's complaint charged that Burke was connected with the published material. The case is set for hearing in Santa Ana justice court December 9.

Chairman Mitchell. It was believed, also was summoned for information he might give regarding the road oil matter. He was closed with the grand jury for more than an hour.

Prior to his appearance before the grand jury, Chairman Mitchell intimated that he was ready and willing to tell the grand jury not only about road oil, but about other matters if it wished.

"I've been investigating other things, too," he said. "If they want to ask me about them."

One of these matters, he indicated, was private use of county automobiles by county officials and employees, a matter that the last grand jury touched upon.

The population of England should attain its maximum figure by 1950, according to estimates.

FARM BUREAU CONVENTION TO 'GRASH' FILMS

According to R. W. Blackburn, president of the California Farm Bureau Federation, leading motion picture companies will cooperate with organized agriculture in producing on the sound screen the outstanding features of the joint conventions of the California Farm Bureau Federation, American Farm Bureau Federation, and Associated Women of the Farm Bureau, to be held in Pasadena, December 6 to 11. This three-day meeting, representative of 29 agricultural counties in the state, will be the largest gathering of cooperating farmers ever held in the west, according to Blackburn. No farm meeting in the state has attracted such wide attention as the one to be held in Pasadena, December 6 to 11.

In addition to addresses by outstanding leaders in every walk of life related to agriculture and its affairs, one of the star attractions will be the singing by a chorus of 400 members of the California Farm Bureau Federation, men and women, recruited from the 43 organized Farm Bureau counties of the state. This is history of farm gatherings. Notices who have attended rehearsals of this chorus declare its performance is of a first class professional character; yet its members, both men and women, have been selected from the ranks of those who live on farms and work for a living. In addition to formal musical program, this chorus will lead the entire convention in community singing.

Blackburn adds, 75 chorus members will go from Orange county. A second feature of the convention will be a typical California barbecue to be held at Brookside park just adjacent to the famous Rose Bowl. On December 9th, more than 10,000 are expected to share in this feature. Choice California beef animals are now being fattened in the hills for the barbecue. The California Fruit Growers' Exchange has agreed to store a carload of oranges to be used in furnishing treats with free orange juice, lemons, fruits, nuts, and other products, typical of California's great agricultural diversity, will be provided by various counties and farm cooperatives. The tentative program lists such nationally-known men and women as Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace; Chester C. Davis, member of the board of governors of the Federal Reserve System; Dr. Robert G. Sproul, president of the University of California; Governor Frank P. Merriam; Dr. Rufus B. Klenzsmid, president of the University of Southern California; Francis Lederer, screen and stage actor and president of the World Voice Foundation; Chester Rowell, San Francisco Chronicle; Dr. E. Martin, chairman of the department of political science, University of Washington; and authority on international trade.

Jimmy Fidler in HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 2. — How many feel like I do about Shirley Temple? She is one of my favorites, but I cannot stifle the fear that she is being wasted in too many song-and-dance pictures. Her employers are, as far as I am concerned, transforming the movies' warmest bit of human fluff into a performing doll. Of late, I have seen her in so many "look at my tricks" productions that she is in danger of becoming, at least to my weak eyes, like a neighbor's annoying six-year-old daughter who insists upon reciting "Little Boopie" — and I wish she would go away and lose herself with her sheep. The neighbor's brat, I mean, not Shirley.

Granting that she does her musical comedy well, I still prefer Shirley in stories that play sweet tunes on my heart cords. I hummer for more such fare as she provided in "Little Miss Marker" and "Bright Eyes." When I saw those pictures, I shed tears for Shirley, and I warned inside when she laughed her contagious Temple tinkle. I don't get the same satisfying thrill from her new pictures because I cannot see that she sings or dances any better than hundreds of other children. Remember that "We Want Cantor" chant? Well, I want the nearly-lost Shirley.

Lyle Talbot showed up for work yesterday morning in a plaid coat of many colors. Bennie Baker took one squint and said, "You're not wearing that in the picture, are you?" "Why not?" demanded Talbot. "Because," barked Baker, "I play the comedy in this movie."

Congressman Marvin Jones, chairman, House Committee on Agriculture; Dr. L. N. Duncan, president, Alabama Polytechnic Institute; H. R. Tolley, administrator, Soil Conservation Act and related measures; B. H. Crocker, director of Agricultural Extension, University of California; Clifford Gregory, editor Prairie Farmer and member of the President's special commission to study cooperatives in Europe; Dr. William I. Myers, governor, Farm Credit Administration; E. A. O'Neal, president, American Farm Bureau Federation; Emily R. Kneubuhl and Julia O. Newton of Washington, D. C.; Mrs. Abbie C. Sargent, president, Associated Women of the Farm Bureau; R. W. Blackburn, president of the California Farm Bureau Federation and member of the executive committee of the national federation, and many others.

Pageants, sight-seeing trips, visits to places of unusual agricultural interest, farm tours, and other features have been provided by the committee in charge. Members of the 4-H Boys' and Girls' Clubs and Future Farmers of America from many California counties have been designated to act as ushers and pages.

The audacity of young movie fans knows few limits, and Gloria Stuart tells me of a little incident which illustrates my point perfectly. A college boy from the middle west, visiting Los Angeles for an inter-sectional football game, obtained her telephone number and called to tell her he had tickets, and would she go with him. "Surely," agreed Gloria, "if you'll make it three. I think I should take my husband." A click of the phone was her answer.

Speaking of singing (which I was not, but I WAS humming, and thinking how like Bing Crosby I sound), a technician today volunteered information that almost anyone can sing acceptably for the screen. The matter came up when I commented that Clark Gable's voice in a recent movie did not sound half bad, whereas in real life I regard him a suitable substitute for a steam whistle.

The technician told me that any smart sound-man can pick up a faintly crooning voice, enlarge it, deepen it, add timbre, lend it warmth, and give it just about everything it needs to make audiences' hearts tingle. Most stars' voices, he said (and would have his neck wrung if I revealed his name), are thin and tiny. Soundmen must be experts in building them to volume and depth.

FOOTBALL FILM AND "CHINA SEAS" SOON

"The Big Game," one of the season's finest football films, and "China Seas," a big hit of last season, returned by popular request, will be screened at Walker's new theater, Third and Bush streets, for three days commencing Thursday.

A host of gridiron stars will be seen in action in the football story. They include Bobby Wilson, Bill Shakespeare, Jay Berwanger, Monk Moscrip, Bones Hamilton and Frank Alustiza. Screen stars include Philip Huston, June Travis, Bruce Cabot, James Gleason, Andy Devine, Gail Patrick and Barbara Papper.

A great cast of the screen's most popular stars brings the story of "China Seas"—Clark Gable, Jean Harlow and Wallace Beery, aided by such sterling players as Lewis Stone, Rosalind Russell and C. Aubrey Smith.

Showing for the last time to-night, Walker's presents "The Big Broadcast of 1937" with an all-star cast, and "Wives Never Know," a Charlie Ruggles-Mary Boland comedy of wedded life.

NASH FEATURES TAILORED RIDE

The tailored ride which Nash engineers introduced at the last auto show is all spruced up with a new lining, buttons sewed on tightly, and freshly pressed for 1937 customers.

In other words, the springs of the 1937 Nash LaFayette cars have again been fitted for even better service.

A new type of insert is being used between the tips of the leaves of a new type of lubricant which is affected by neither temperature or water is put between the leaves, and a heavy canvas covering is wrapped around the spring. Then a metal cover is sealed on the outside and the springs are ready for thousands of miles of consistent performance.

They will not bounce too easily in hot weather, nor too stiffly when it is cold. And the engineering department promises that they will never squeak. Furthermore, they should never need lubrication, but if an owner should keep his car longer than usual and the springs should finally need attention, the service departments of authorized Nash LaFayette dealers will be able to pierce the metal spring cover with a special tool and insert more of the same lubricant which was put in at the factory.

TO AVOID DETOUR

To avoid the detour on the Dike road south of San Diego, go via Twelfth street to National avenue, thence to Highland avenue, reports the San Diego office of the National Automobile club.

The motor industry continues to lead industrial recovery. In 1935 factory sales increased 44 per cent, retail sales in the United States 45 per cent and foreign sales 19 per cent over 1934. Domestic and foreign sales in 1936 reflect additional progress.

STUDEBAKER'S COAST PLANT IS COMPLETED

The second great link in Studebaker's production activities on the Pacific coast was completed recently when William P. Neil, contractor and builder, formally presented the keys of the new million-dollar body plant to Stanley Whitworth, vice-president of the Studebaker Pacific Corporation.

The new body plant was built to take care of increased production demands from distributors and dealers throughout the nine Pacific Coast states. Built adjacent to and as an integral part of the assembly plant, which was constructed late in 1935, the new addition will be used for such stages in body assembly as painting, wiring and upholstery. From the new plant these completed bodies will travel by mechanical conveyor to the main assembly line in the year-old building.

Motors, frames, axles, wheels, unfinished bodies and fenders as well as countless parts are shipped to this point from the Studebaker factory at South Bend, Indiana. However, a number of parts and accessories that are manufactured on the Pacific coast and that meet Studebaker specifications, are purchased here. Among these are included tires, batteries and bumpers.

Covers Five Acres
The new building has over 142,000 square feet of floor space, making a total area for both buildings of more than five acres on one floor level.

Production increases for the Pacific Coast since the completion of the original Los Angeles assembly plant have been phenomenal, according to C. K. Whittaker, president of the Studebaker Pacific Corporation.

"The assembly plant was originally designed to serve the dealers in California with a production of 25 cars per day. By the time the factory was completed it was decided that the entire Pacific Coast region, including dealers in the nine western states, should receive their Studebakers from the Los Angeles plant. This necessitated producing more than twice the number of cars originally planned and provided for.

"The popularity of the 1936 Studebakers and the new 1937 models, presented to the public on September 15 of this year, has caused production to increase nearly 44 per cent since March. The number of cars produced in October was 2315 as compared with 1611 for 'March,' Whittaker said.

With daily production now three times greater than the original estimate of a year ago and with 1937 promising even greater sales, the need for this new plant is apparent.

GAS CONSUMPTION AT HUGE FIGURE

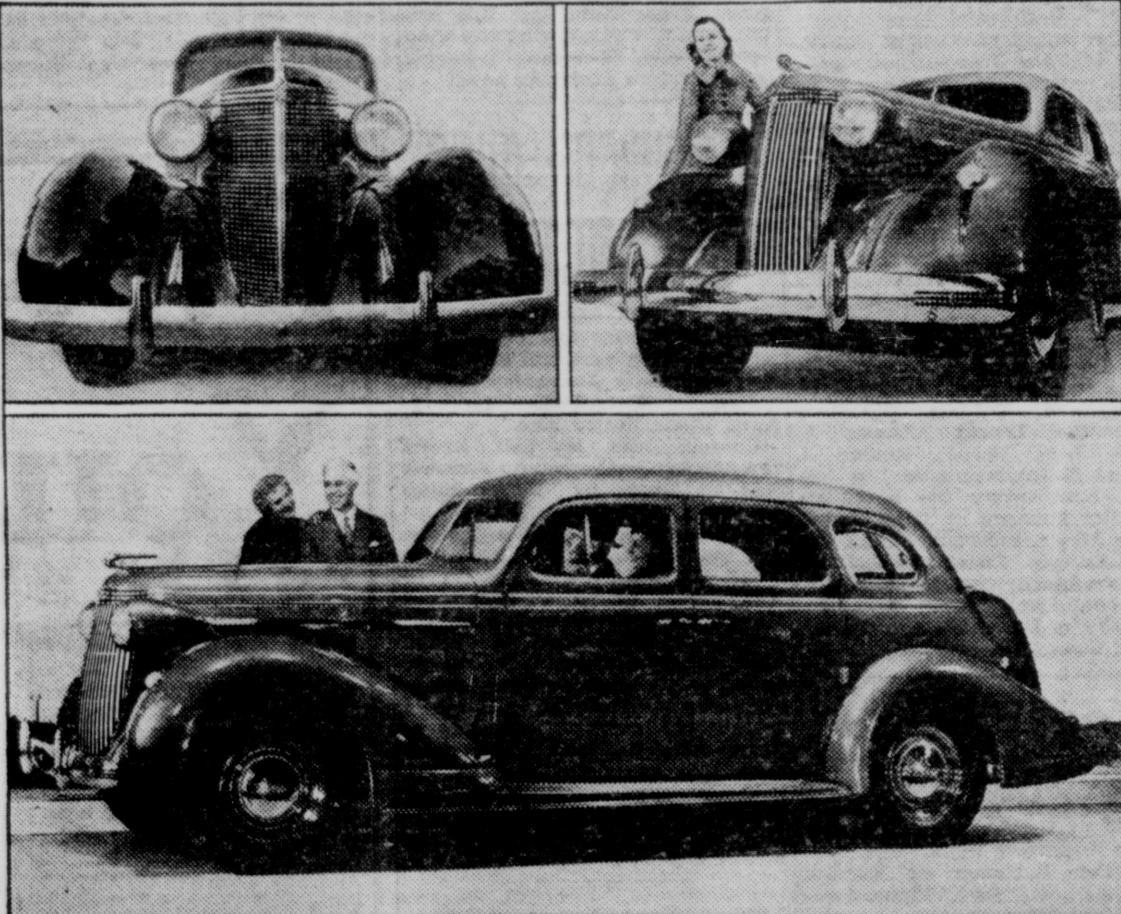

Gasoline consumption in the United States last year mounted to more than 18,000,000,000 gallons out of a world total of more than 26,000,000,000, according to the Automobile Club of Southern California. This total for the United States represented an annual usage per vehicle of 697 gallons.

MONEY SPENT TO KEEP ROADS BAD

Huge sums are spent annually in the United States to make roads good. The Packard Motor Car company each year spends a large sum to keep roads bad. It employs expert road men who do nothing else but keep the test roads of the proving grounds in the worst possible condition.

The World War cost a total of $107,000,000 a day.

Nash LaFayette Introduces 1937 Models

Three distinctive new lines of modern motor cars have been announced by the Nash Motors Company for 1937. Bigger and roomier, smartly styled, each series is a leader in its price class. While retaining all popular Nash features and built to conform to the high standards of quality, the new models have been improved and refined in body, chassis and motor. Every feature adding to safety, comfort, performance and economy has been engineered right into the 1937 Nash LaFayette cars. Leader of the line is the aristocratic Nash Ambassador Eight. Next in size and price is the Nash Ambassador Six. In the low price field is the Nash LaFayette-400. Pictured above at the left is a head-on view of the Nash LaFayette-400. GILMORE OIL AGENTS ENTER KING CONTEST

Indications of a constant improvement in business conditions throughout the entire Pacific coast in general and in Santa Ana and its environs in particular were disclosed yesterday by Wallace W. Craney, branch manager of the Gilmore Oil company, following a comparative sales report sent him by the home office of the concern.

During the last 60 day period the Gilmore company has been conducting a "King for a Day" contest among independent dealers, with the offer that 82 of the leading dealers on the coast shall have the privilege of being entertained for 24 hours as their whim and wish dictates.

According to Craney's report, a number of dealer's featuring Gilmore products in Santa Ana are topping the efforts of their fellow dealers in other sections of the west.

"One of the reasons for this in general conditions are, I believe better in Santa Ana," declared Craney. "Our sales are showing splendid progress in every section, but particularly in Orange county. And another important reason is that we have some very modern dealers here who are on their toes. They know how to put out the calibre of service that wins a constantly increasing number of customers."

When asked what types of entertainment the dealers would choose if they were among the fortunate winners, Craney declared their selections for the 24 hour fun-fest run the whole gamut of things. A number of dealers have said they would like to go to Hollywood, see the studios, the world-famous Pasadena Tournament of Roses and the Rose Bowl game. One dealer had issued the ultimatum that if he wins he's going to put in 24 solid hours of deep sea fishing.

The "King for a Day" event had its inception with meetings held here for dealers and the inauguration in the newspapers of the unusual "Vote for Red Lion" advertising campaign. This sales drive is said to have been one of the most successful in the firm's history.

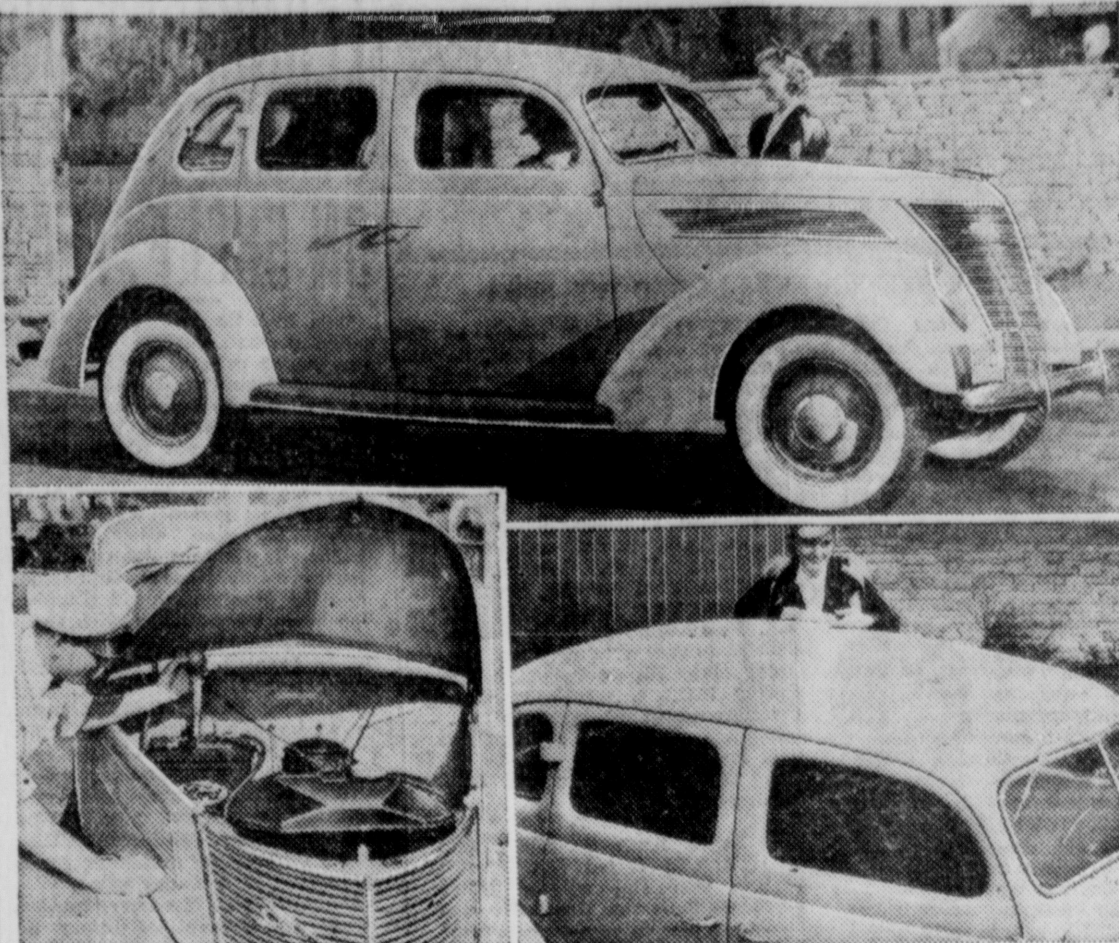

MAJOR BEARINGS PRESSURE OILED

Lubrication of Buick engines is by pressure to all main, connecting rod and camshaft bearings and rocker arm shaft bushings. There is positive feed also to timing chain and valve lifter mechanism while cylinder walls are bathed in a constant spray of oil. A gear driven pump provides the oil pressure.

REMOVE BORDER AUTOMOBILE TAX

A tax of three pesos recently imposed by Mexican authorities on cars taking the highway to Ensenada, Lower California, has been removed by orders from Mexico City, the Automobile Club of Southern California is advised. Many motor tourists protested the tax upon travel going south of the border town of Tijuana.

Sweeping Improvements in 1937 Ford V-8s

Since the introduction of the 1937 Ford V-8 the middle of November, Ford dealerships have been visited by record-breaking throngs. Ford Motor Company officials report. The unusual interest aroused by the new 60-horsepower V-8 engine, the attractive new appearance of the cars and the new low prices are credited with attracting the great number of visitors.

ROYAL MASTER IS SAFE TIRE

The intensive campaign which the nation is pushing to reduce traffic accidents is beginning to show results. It was pointed out today by Jerry Hall, Second and Main streets, local U. S. tire dealer.

"Already the total number of fatal accidents has been reduced and the downward trend is growing stronger every day," Jerry Hall said. "This is most encouraging, especially since there are many more cars on the road now than there were last year.

"Among the year's most notable contributions to motoring safety is the de-skidded tire recently pioneered by U. S. Rubber. This tire, known as the U. S. Royal Master, is bringing to car owners a greater degree of safety than they had ever hoped for in a tire. In my opinion, its development is fully as important as that of safety glass and the steel body.

"This tire has many super-safety features, but in its mastery over conditions which ordinarily cause skidding, it is really spectacular. It tremendously reduces both forward and side skids, and this latter is particularly important because the side skids are the ones which are responsible for the great majority of skidding accidents.

"The novel construction of the tire enables it to give this additional safety. The de-skidding process provides hundreds of sharp-edged tread units which dig down and grip slippery pavements, and thereby keep the car under the motorist's control.

"The entire automotive industry is giving the fullest cooperation in the national safety campaign. Efforts to date augur well for the realization of the National Safety Council's goal of a 35 per cent cut in traffic accidents by 1940."

The first Vanderbilt cup race was run in 1904. The same year saw the straight-eight motor, shock-absorbers, pressure engine lubrication and automatic carburetors introduced.

PACKARD FIRST ACROSS BRIDGE

Some 15 years ago Earle C. Anthony had a dream—a dream of San Francisco Bay bridged by the longest bridge in the world.

But where others dreamed dreams and forgot them, Anthony decided that he would go to work and make his dream come true. So he organized an aggressive band of dealers and together they worked to launch a promotion and advertising drive that would make the San Francisco public bay bridge conscious.

Dreamers with Anthony were such leading automobile men as Don Lee, and his general manager, Fred Pabst, William L. Hughson and seven others who underwrote the huge advertising campaign.

For all of them the dream has come true. And these three shared honors equally in the recognition given them by a grateful public and appreciative state.

While Fred Pabst, as president of the dealer association, and Billy Hughson, chairman of the bridge bay committee of the dealers association for 15 years, shared honors at the great Shrine Club luncheon in the Palace Hotel, Earle C. Anthony drove the first car to officially cross the San Francisco-Oakland bay bridge.

In the car with Anthony were the Governor Frank Merriam, and a former president, Herbert Hoover.

The first car to cross the great San Francisco-Oakland bay bridge! The dream had come true! And the man who had played such an important part in launching this bridge-the-bay movement was taking a stellar role in the celebration which marked the culmination of his 15-year-old dreams and hopes.

One hundred thousand dollars of San Francisco Dealer association money went into the bridge-the-bay movement so many years ago. The dealers believe they will come back now—those dollars which were cast upon the water so long ago. Come back to the motorists of the city in increased use of their cars, come back to the dealers ingreater sales, come back to the city by the Golden Gate in greater tourist travel, world-wide publicity.

BUICK SPEEDS UP PRODUCTION

The Buick Motor company this week came within a few cars of an all time high in daily production. It was announced today by Harlow H. Curtice, president, in New York, in a communication to W. R. Gordon, of the Reid Motor Car company, in Santa Ana.

In response to one of the strongest retail demands ever experienced by the company, he said, output has been increased to the limits of capacity. A new schedule for December calls for the production of 23,000 cars.

The figures were made public by the executive simultaneously with an announcement to the nationwide Buick dealer organization whose members are clamoring for more cars. It was designed to assure dealers everywhere as well as their customers that the Buick factories are meeting the unprecedented demand with fast shipments of cars to all points to the end that prompt delivery may be made on retail orders.

Production on Friday, November 6, totaled 1333 cars of which 1961 were for domestic delivery not including the west coast, Mr. Curtice said. This output consisted of 100 units for export, 172 cars assembled in the Los Angeles plant of General Motors for distribution in the Pacific states and the 1961 cars built at Flint for shipment elsewhere in the United States. He said output for Monday, November 9, was expected to exceed the above total with the heavy daily volume scheduled to continue.

Unfilled orders at the factory and in zone points throughout the country were placed at 55,123 units.

Commenting on market conditions, the Buick president reaffirmed his belief that the progress of recovery exceeds the average estimation of it and that 1937 will be the best post-depression year experienced by the industry. He said the Buick Motor company now is travelling at the rate of 247,000 cars for the 1937 model year and that there will be no slackening in the company's production departments.

AUTOS INCREASING SUPPLY OF WATER

As chemical factories, automobiles are increasing the world's supply of water by 17,500,000,000 gallons yearly, enough to fill a canal twenty-five feet wide, six feet deep, reaching from New York to Los Angeles.

The number of wage earners in motor vehicle and parts factories in the United States totaled 439,000 in 1935 and their wages ran to $657,332,000.

NEW WRESTLING COMBINE WOULD OUST JACQUES CURLEY

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—Another wrestling war draws to a close. The two major groups now are interchanging grapplers. This really is unimportant, for bone-bending cliques always get together long enough for new factions to form and stir up dissension again. What members of the Old Guard dislike is that there are unmistakable signs that the new alignment will attempt to freeze out Jacques Armand Curley, daddy of front men. The section of the mat crowd with which the last of the old line entrepreneurs more recently has been identified has wanted to do this for some time. The job of selling grunts, groans, grimaces, and gestures to New York has been badly bungled since former grapplers and Johnny-Come-Latelys in the antiquated dogfight first cramped Jack Curley's style efforts to usurp the position he has held so long. It isn't likely that those opposing him will succeed in relegating Curley to the sidelines, but if they do, the ear messengers shortly will be paying him again. Curley is vastly more important to the dog in Manhattan than any of the championship claimants of those in wrestling are guilty of ingratitude when they try to give Curley the run-around. Jacques Armand resurrected bone-bending when most everybody believed that the last rites had been pronounced over it.

PLUGGING REVIVES GAME
By telling the cockeyed world day after day that the pul-and-tug industry was the greatest sport of all, that it was dead on the level and that no crooked match ever had taken place in any spot on earth, some began to believe Jacques Armand. He plugged away until the idea gained such impetus that for a period of five years the business became a veritable avalanche, with thousands tramping over one another to see the had men toss one another out of rings all over the country. Curley, now around 60, is by far the most versatile promoter who ever lived. It isn't a question of what Jacques has promoted, but what has been promoted—wrestling, boxing, bicycle races, tennis matches, dancing, lecturing, and choir singing have known his touch. Consensus of coaches, sports writers and players of the mightiest interscholastic confederation in Southern California, The Coast Preparatory League's football team, announced today. Ferris Wall, who alternated at right tackle and left guard, is Santa Ana's only representative on the mythical lineup, although Lyle Moyer, guard, and Mitsuo Nitta, end, received honorable mention.

Wall, a bulky 185-pounder, was the standout player of the Saint machine, starting in almost every game although he was championing a lost cause. Starting as a tackle, Wall later was shifted to a blocking guard spot in an effort to improve Santa Ana's running attack. Toward the end, Wall also backed up the line on defense. Either at guard or tackle, Wall figures to help Santa Ana jayvees club next fall for the Dons are going to be hard hit by graduation. PITTSBURGH TO GET HUSKY BID. SEATTLE HEARS

SEATTLE, Wash., Dec. 2.—(UP)—The University of Pittsburgh, defeated only by its city rival Duquesne in one of the season's outstanding upsets, today was reported to have the inside track for the Rose Bowl spot along with the University of Washington. The Huskies, who won the Pacific Conference title and the right to represent the west, will announce selection of their opponent Monday, it is believed. Alabama or Louisiana State, both unbeaten but tied, had received top unofficial consideration for the New Year's Day game, but a poll of the Washington squad taken by the Washington Daily showed a majority of the players preferred the Panthers. "We want to meet the toughest team in the country," said Max Starevich, All-America guard. "Pitt has the best defense in the east, and outside of Washington, the best in the nation." Assistants on the coaching staff also reportedly had told friends that the bid would go to Pitt. Jim Phelan, head coach, however, refused to discuss the matter. Pittsburgh has been to the Rose Bowl three times without gaining a victory. In 1928 they lost to Stanford, 6 to 7. Two years later Southern California swamped them 47 to 14 and in 1933 repeated with a 35 to 0 rout.

IMPORTANT 'PHONE CALL TO DECIDE CHANCE
PASADENA, Dec. 2.—(UP)—Selection of an Eastern or Southern opponent for the University of Washington in the Rose Bowl hinged on an "important telephone call" today. Ray Eckmann, director of athletics at the University of Washington, arrived here last night to confer with Rose Bowl officials before making a selection of the team that will oppose the Huskies. "I'm waiting for an important telephone call which will decide the matter," Eckmann said. "I can't say where the call is from. At any rate, no announcement will be made today. It probably will be made tomorrow."

FLEET FIVE VICTORY IN OVERTIME GAME
Uncle Samuel's Vestal basketball five turned back Quentin Matzen's Santa Ana Woolen Mills, 41 to 28, in an overtime contest at the Y. M. C. A. pavilion last night. The upset was the first defeat suffered by the Weavers this season and was only accomplished after an uphill battle. Manager Russell "Rusty" Sullivan put the Woolen Mills back in the ball game in the second half, by caging 10 points in rapid succession. Before he went in the Santa Ana team was trailing by ten points at halftime. It was through the sharpshooting of Sullivan, Doug Wheeler and Fred Wiemer, all collecting 10 points each, the Weavers managed to knot the count 36-all when the game ended. SPORTS WHIRLIGIG; NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

The Monday before the high school game between Santa Ana and Fullerton, Coach Bill Foote warned his Saints something like this: "Only the men who get in this game will receive letters, no matter how much time they've played in other contests, conference or otherwise." "It all depends on what you do in practice this week," said Coach Foote. "Those who put out will be rewarded; those who won't, get nothing." Chief victims of Coach Foote's post-season discipline were the bench warmers. Against Fullerton, neither Bill Milligan and Guard Lyle Moyer, both erstwhile regulars, both seniors. Neither stirred off the bench against Fullerton; neither will be recommended for letters, although both appeared in nearly every other contest. Santa Ana high school has no ruling on letters, gives its coach full authority to select those who wear the block S. A. For he it from me to butt into Coach Foote's disciplinary measures. A coach MUST be supreme. But seems to me if Milligan and Moyer really were dross they should have been fired off the squad long ago. Otherwise, it would appear they deserve letters, having qualified in every other way.

KUHN IN FINAL PCK COUNT'S GAME FOR S. C. ALL-STAR MEN
Donning his cardinal and gold football uniform for the last time, Capt. Gil Kuhn of Placentia leads his University of Southern California teammates against Notre Dame Saturday at 2 p. m. in the Los Angeles Coliseum. Troy's captain will receive his degree in education in February and will go on to law school, teach or enter the movies. He has been offered screen tests to make Spanish-version pictures. Kuhn's brilliant play has gained him all-star mention the last three years. Leading up to the annual All-Orange league football teams of 1936 (to be published in The Register tomorrow), mythical all-star elevens for both the Major and Minor divisions of the conference were selected today. They represent the concentrated efforts of county-wide coaches and sports editors. Orange and Anaheim, which finished one-two in the final standings after playing a 6-6 tie in their championship game, dominated the Major group, each school landing three places. Four members of "Red" Guyer's surprising Laguna Beach title were nominated in the Minor league, which they won without a tie or defeat. The Major and Minor teams: MAJOR DIVISION End—Walter Kelly, Newport Harbor End—Ted DeVeliss, Anaheim Tackle—Rex Whittemore, Anaheim Tackle—Rex Whittemore, Anaheim Guard—Bob Ward, Garden Grove Guard—Stanford Johnson, Huntington Beach Center—Melvin Bohner, Orange Quarter—Merle Hopes, Orange Grove Right Half—Lary Timken, Orange Left Half—Jim Sakamoto, Anaheim Fullback—Jack Jenkins, Huntington Beach MINOR DIVISION End—Roy Parker, Valencia End—Tony Salazar, Tustin Tackle—Bill Murray, Laguna Beach Guard—Herman Walker, Laguna Beach Guard—Dale Mickelwaite, Laguna Beach Center—Pancho Forster, San Juan Quarter—Del Jones, Valencia Left Half—Gordon Baker, Brea-Clinda Right Half—Rollo Beck, Laguna Beach Fullback—Paul Francis, Tustin Honorable Mention: Ends—Cook, San Juan Capistrano; Tackles—Shores, Brea-Clinda; Holders—Tustin; Goff, Laguna Beach; Guards—Deer, San Juan Capistrano; Centers—Chamberlin, Laguna Beach; Bristow, Tustin; Hepper, Valencia; Backs, Henderson, Brea-Clinda; Blacketer, Laguna Beach; Monroy, Tustin.

NOTRE DAME SQUAD ARRIVES AT TUCSON

TUCSON, Ariz., Dec. 2.—(UP)—Coach Elmer Layden and 36 of his Notre Dame gridmen arrived here early today for a two-day "limbering up" session in preparation for the Southern California game at Los Angeles Saturday. The Irish ran through a warming up workout on the frosty University of Arizona field shortly after their arrival, but announced their next three sessions would be secret. They entrain for Los Angeles Friday.

years. He played center on the Trojan freshman eleven in 1932 and went out for varsity spring practice, but he suffered an injured shoulder. Remaining out of play in '33, he returned the next year and made first string center. Last year he was the "iron man" of the team, playing more minutes than any other man on the squad. This year he made several all-coast and All-American teams. On offense he is noted for his hard charging as well as his smooth passing of the ball. Defensively he is the best tackler on the squad. Kuhn has also earned two rugby letters. The 185 pound center is of Spanish-German descent and his mother is a descendant of the Dominguez family. Kuhn came to S. C. from Fullerton high where he was All-Coast league center.

DAVIS HURT BUT PLAYS AGAINST RAMBLERS
LOS ANGELES, Dec. 2.—(UP)—Davis Davis, senior quarterback for the U. S. C. Trojans, probably will play Saturday against Notre Dame but was out of suit today with an injured ankle received in scrimmage. Davis joined Ray George, tackle, and Ray Haas, guard, also on the sidelines with injuries.

LENNHARDT AND STANLEY ALSO ON SHELF, FEAR

This was the bluest day of the entire football season at Santa Ana junior college. Those were three good and valid reasons: (1) Bill Greschner, all-conference quarterback, was definitely written out of the Don-Los Angeles struggle here Friday night for the Southern California jayvee championship; (2) two other "key" backs, Co-Captain John Lennhardt, all-conference fullback, and Ed Stanley, rugged blocking back, were in bed with the flu. Lennhardt may or may not play; Stanley seems definitely out.

Sustained in the Chaffey game two weeks ago, Greschner's groin injury has not responded to a rest cure. Coach Bill Cook, himself sniffing with a severe cold, said Greschner could not possibly be ready by Friday. Bill can neither run nor jump, two requisites for a quarterback in a titular game. Lennhardt, who has never missed a game on account of injury or illness in five years of prep and jayvee football, was sent home yesterday. Stanley has been out of college all week. Of the two Lennhardt has the better chance to see action.

With Greschner and Lennhardt both on the shelf, the Dons' offensive burden would fall on Blas Mercurio, curly-haired Santa Ana high school graduate, who never had a suit on until late last fall when he got in a couple of November games with the Saints. Santa Ana's Eastern conference champions celebrated their victorious march for the first time last night in the Church of the Messiah with an informal "dunk dinner," given by Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Holmes in honor of their son, Bob Holmes, crack center of the Dons, and his teammates. Picking an all-opponents team put the final touch to the enjoyable affair. The Dons included only conference rivals in their selections, but mentioned such men as Kenny Washington and Woodrow Strode of U. C. L. A. Frosh; Grenville Lansell, Marion Wright and Preston Clipper of Pasadena jayvee as outstanding players faced this year.

Santa Ana's All-Opponents Team:
Left end—Gieseke, Riverside. Right end—Landish, Fullerton. Left tackle—Hammerschmidt, Riverside. Right tackle—Johnson, Chaffey. Left guard—Rockwell, Fullerton. Right guard—Utman, Chaffey. Center—Weides, Citrus. Quarter—Montgomery, Citrus. Left halfback—Wasilchen, Pomona. Right halfback—Leest, Riverside. Fullback—Casey, Pomona.

Ray Devine celebrated his 20th birthday at the victory banquet and made one of the short impromptu "speeches" that enlightened the affair. In attendance besides the team members were Mr. and Mrs. C. Benson, Eddie Holmes, Coaches Bill Cook and Blanchard Beatty, Tom Salisbury, Bill Cole, Bill Nowotny, Ed Velarde, Duncan Clark and the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Holmes. Team members on deck were Les Minder, Fred Erdhaus, Ray Devine, Hal Mosiman, Bob Holmes, Carl Benson, "Rusty" Roquet, Erwin Youel, Al Tinsner, Mac Beall, Joe Herbert, Joe Crawford, Dick Tauber, Jim Burkhardt, Harry Stanley, Al Lamb, Fred Pinkston, Bill Semacher, Roy Waer, Bob Paul, Minoru Nitta, Fred Lentz, Max Moore, Gordon West, Carl Lennhardt, Dick Connell, Walt Opp, Merle Griset, Dick DeSmet, Harry Gidner, Dick Sheppard, Ray Sider, Blas Mercurio, Charles Mueller and Larry Todd. Bill Greschner, John Lennhardt and Ed Stanley were unable to be present on account of illness.

JAYSEE RALLY SCHEDULED AT THEATER

Last minute preparations for a football rally by students of Santa Ana junior college were announced today by Vic Rowland, president of the Associated Students. Rowland said the rally will be held tomorrow night in the form of a party at the Broadway theater. Students will attend the second show en masse. Preceding the feature, "The Devil is a Sissy," they will be lead in yells and also addressed by Dean of Men Calvin Flint.

FRESNO GRID STRIKE OFF

FRESNO, Dec. 2.—(UP)—Fresno State's football squad was en route to Wichita Falls, Tex., today, for an intercollegiate game Saturday with Hardin-Simmons university. Johnny Hawkins, quarterback, and center of a pre-departure controversy, was among the 25 players making the trip. The squad had threatened to "strike" unless Hawkins, a senior, was allowed to make the trip. Coach Jimmy Bradshaw had omitted Hawkins' name for "disciplinary reasons." Just before train time Hawkins apologized to Bradshaw for the incident—not revealed by Bradshaw—and the coach reinstated the player.

GELBERT. DAVIS OF CARDS SOLD TO CINCINNATI

ST. LOUIS, Dec. 2.—(UP)—The St. Louis Cardinals today announced the sale of infielder Charlie Gelbert and their first string catcher, Virgil Davis, to the Cincinnati Reds for an unannounced sum. It was a straight cash deal, no Cincinnati players being involved.

MONTREAL, Dec. 2.—(UP)—The Chicago Cubs continued to keep the player market active at the minor league baseball meeting today by selling Outfielder Ethian Allen to the St. Louis Browns. Allen came to the Cubs last season from the Philadelphia Phillies along with Pitcher Curtis Davis. He has played 11 years in the majors. Acquisition yesterday of Outfielder Joe Marty, San Francisco rookie, paved the way for Allen's sale.

Peacock Signs With Red Sox

Catcher John Peacock, who was recently declared a free agent by Commissioner K. M. Landis, signed with the Boston Red Sox at a reported price of $15,000. Peacock belonged to the Cincinnati Reds before Commissioner Landis ruled he had been improperly signed. The question on every tongue was: "Where will Dizzy Dean go?" It was taken for granted that Dean, most colorful, if not the best, pitcher in the land will be traded.

Bidding Between Giants, Reds

The bidding for Dean is apparently between the New York Giants and Cincinnati Reds. Warren Giles, business manager of the Reds, confirmed the fact that his club offered $200,000 cash for Dean and was turned down. Rickie won't say yes or no about the Reds' offer, but he slyly remarks: "Dollars can't run bases for the Cardinals." The surmise is that the Cardinals want players and cash for Dean, with the Giants ready to part with Pitcher Hal Schumacher, infielder Eddie Mayo, Outfielder Hank Lisher and a bundle of cash to get the pitching ace. Pittsburgh also is a bidder for Dean.

COACH'S AUTO SMASHES INTO RAIL UPRIGHT

BOSTON, Dec. 2.—(UP)—Gilmour (Gloomy Gil) Dobie, 58, who has coached college football for 34 years, was injured critically today when his sedan smashed into a railroad overpass upright. A companion, Frank Murdoch, freshman football coach at Boston college, where Dobie last February became head coach, also was hurt seriously. Both suffered brain concussions and multiple face lacerations, abrasions and contusions. They were still semi-conscious hours later.

Dobie became known as "Gloomy Gil" because of his dour predictions for even his most successful teams. Dobie began coaching as assistant at the University of Minnesota, where he was quarterback prior to graduating in 1902. Successively he became head coach at North Dakota Agricultural college, University of Washington, U. S. Naval academy and Cornell, where he remained for 16 years, finally resigning last February.

Larry Kelley Of Yale Voted Best Gridder In U. S.

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—(UP)—Larry Kelley, Yale captain and All-America end, has won the John Heisman trophy, awarded annually to the outstanding player of the year. Kelley ran away with the post, in which sports writers and broadcasters throughout the nation participated.

GRID 'CLEANUP' DUE SATURDAY

NEW YORK, Dec. 2.—(UP)—Three intercollegiate clashes feature this week-end's cleanup games of the 1936 football schedule with all action in the South and Far West. Notre Dame tackles Southern California at Los Angeles in the headline affair, while Manhattan's Jaspers meet Texas A. & M. at Tyler, Texas, and St. Mary's entertains "Pop" Warner's Temple Owls at San Francisco.

GRID 'CLEANUP' DUE SATURDAY

The Southwestern conference championship still has to be decided, and Arkansas, present co-leader with Texas Christian, gets a chance for sole possession of the title when the Razorbacks tackle University of Texas at Little Rock. An Arkansas loss would leave the Christians in sole possession of the crown. Another conference game, Rice vs. Southern Methodist, gives Rice a last opportunity of placing fifth in the standings. A Tennessee victory over Mississippi at Memphis Saturday will give the Vols a tie with Auburn for third place in the Southeastern conference while Mississippi State can take undisputed possession of fifth place with a decision against Florida at Gainesville.

GRID 'CLEANUP' DUE SATURDAY

In other games, Maryland entertains Western Maryland at Baltimore; Miami plays host to Georgetown at Miami and Rollins tangles with Stetson at Orlando. The latter two are Friday affairs.

LATE NEWS OF ORANGE AND VICINITY

MUSIC FEATURE OF PREACHING MISSION RITES

ORANGE, Dec. 2.—An increased attendance at the preaching mission of First Christian church last night over that of Monday night was noted. The special feature of the service was the musical program of the junior chorus and violin ensemble under the direction of Mrs. Dayton Ditchey, assisted by Mrs. Clayton Ferrin. The selections included a prelude and the offertory and there were violin accompaniments for the choros and congregational singing. The choros rendered "Harvest Home," "Idle Hours" and the anthem, "We Give Thanks."

The pastor's fourth message in the series was "God's Counsel to His Children in Regard to Industry." He said in part, "Every explanation we have seen of the depression and our general industrial confusion has named as a primary cause something that is classified as a sin by the word of God. Had the Counsel of God been heeded there would have been no depression. It was not caused by empty barns or banks but by empty souls."

"The mess was of man's making. God poured out in abundance but men were too greedy to share it justly, so the channels were clogged and the markets glutted with hoarding profiteers on one side and millions of impoverished and suffering people on the other. The basic heresy was that men believed God's blessings were for profits rather than for people and were much more interested in wealth than in welfare. 'God hath given thee, O Man, what is good. What doth the Lord require of thee but to do justly, love kindly, and walk humbly with thy God.' The whole earth is in travail until the sons of God appear—and Christ be formed in us." This evening at 7:30 o'clock Mr. Stanley Kurtz will conduct the singing and render the special numbers. Sermon subject, "God's Counsel Regarding Education."

FARM CENTER GROUP GUESTS AT BEN E. GELKER RESIDENCE

ORANGE, Dec. 2.—The Home Department of the Foothill Farm center met yesterday at the lovely ranch home of Mrs. Ben E. Gelker on the hills above Olive. The meeting convened at 10 o'clock, with a covered dish luncheon at noon. Mrs. H. H. Gardner, chairman, presided at the afternoon business session, introducing Miss Frances Liles, Farm Bureau home demonstration agent of Santa Ana, who gave an interesting talk on "Menu Planning."

Miss Liles discussed the nutritional, economic and aesthetic aspects of meals. She stated that the food dollar should be divided into fifths, and used in the following proportions: one-fifth for milk, one-fifth for meat, eggs and cheese, one-fifth for fruit and cereals, one-fifth for bread and cereals, and one-fifth for sugar, fats and other staples.

Each member present received a chart showing the acid and alkaline foods and the different effects both types of food have on the system. In connection with the date of the National Farm Bureau Federation convention at Pasadena, which is to be from December 6 to 11, inclusive. A request was made for flowers and fruits to be brought to the convention for the benefit of eastern visitors who will be present.

Various members present demonstrated new ideas in table decorations and gifts for the Christmas holidays and season. Mrs. C. O. Thomson gave a recipe for persimmon fruit cake. Household economic ideas for future study were discussed in an open session led by Mrs. Gardner and Miss Liles.

A vote was taken and the women of the Foothill Home department went on record as unanimously opposing the proposed comfort station to be erected in the Plaza in Orange. It was announced by the chairman, Mrs. Gardner, that President Robert Gordon Sproul of the University of California at Berkeley and the University of California at Los Angeles will be a guest speaker at the National Farm Bureau convention in Pasadena on December 9. At that time, the secretary of agriculture, Henry D. Wallace, will give the feature address at noon, which will officially open the convention, and in which he will stress farm policies of the national administration.

The next meeting of the department will be on January 15 of the new year and the topic of discussion will be "Interior Decoration and Color Harmony." Members present at yesterday's meeting participated in a name contest to test the ability of each one present to name the other members correctly. When papers were corrected, the winner, who came closest to having all the names correctly written and spelled, proved to be Mrs. Thomas Hight, who was awarded a set of new Christmas cards.

Those present at the meeting besides the hostess, Mrs. B. E. Gelker, were: Mrs. R. J. Mueller, and daughter, Miss Evangeline Mueller; Mesdames Anna Fischen, O. O. Burd, Walter Adams, Laurence Collins, Paul Ristow, Anna Linhart, Frank Maxwell, Harry Riehl, J. F. Heltschusen, Henry Marquet, C. O. Thomson, J. A. Porter, John Stinson, Henry Luchau, E. B. GRILL TO TALK TO GROWERS AT MEET FRIDAY

John W. Crill, chairman of the joint reception committee for the 18th annual conventions of the American and California Farm Bureau Federations in Pasadena next week, will address a meeting of growers and bureau members in Garden Grove Friday evening.

Crill, who also is president of the Orange County Production Credit Association, will emphasize the importance of every phase of the annual conclaves and outline the primary purposes of the various departmental meetings.

The speech at Garden Grove will be one of a series of talks that Crill has made in this area since he received several special communications from headquarters of the American federation in Chicago.

COUNTY WOMEN TAKE LEADING ROLE AT MEET

Orange county women and women from throughout the entire state will play an important role in the joint conventions of the American and California Farm Bureau Federations in Pasadena next week.

The Associated Women of Farm Bureau will hold their annual convention on Monday and Tuesday, Dec. 7 and 8, after special sessions Sunday afternoon and evening, Dec. 6.

Mrs. Nora Walker, of West Orange, will take part in the opening event of the women's program when she participates in a public speaking competition with other contestants from California.

The program of the women for Monday and Tuesday will include speeches by Mrs. Abbie C. Sargent, president of Associated Women; R. W. Blackburn, president of California Farm Bureau Federation; E. A. O'Neal, president of American Farm Bureau Federation; Miss Julia Newton, Family Credit Secretary from Washington, D. C.; Chester Rowell, editor and columnist of the San Francisco Chronicle; Dr. Rufus B. Von Klein Smid, president of U. S. C. and Francis Lederer, famous moving picture star and president of the World Peace Federation.

Women also have a prominent part in welcoming the people from out-of-state. They will be responsible for flowers and fruit in the rooms of visiting delegates. They will entertain the ladies with trips to the moving picture studios, the Griffith Park planetarium, Huntington Library and other interesting Southern California attractions. Several Orange County women are on the reception committee of the convention headed by John W. Crill of Garden Grove.

Miss Frances Liles, home demonstration agent, will be in charge of serving at an avocado booth at the Auditorium at which all in attendance will receive samples of California avocados. Included in those assisting Miss Liles from Orange county will be Mrs. B. H. Sharpless and Mrs. W. W. Tantlinger, Santa Ana; Mrs. J. J. Carter, Yorba Linda and Mrs. H. H. Gardner, Villa Park.

The San Bernardino convention began today and will continue through Thursday. Most of the 400 beekeepers of Orange county have been looking forward to the sessions to learn the latest details on the thriving industry. Last year at the Oakland convention, 400 beekeepers from all sectors of the state attended. More are expected this year because of a more suitable location.

The nature of the convention is primarily educational and the exhibits pertain to better apiculture, management, better production, better markets, and greater use of and returns from honey products. So the keeper of the bees will take a "holiday" to pick up a few pointers on a "sweet" business—honey.

HEMPSEED MEAL NOT BEST FEED

Hempseed meal, one of the new by-products tested by the animal husbandry division of the University of California, has not been found equal to many of the other feeds that have gained a place on the market or that are now trying to gain recognition. This statement is made by Arthur Folger, on the Davis campus of the College of Agriculture, in a report to the local farm advisor's office. There has been exceptionally large numbers of inquiries regarding hempseed meal as a dairy feed.

A by-product of the seed imported for oil for paint manufacture, it contains about 40 per cent total digestible nutrients. It has the same amount of crude fiber as alfalfa hay, says Folger, but is somewhat lower in nitrogen free extract: while the digestibility of the protein is approximately 84 per cent, that of the fiber is but 12 per cent. The total dry matter in 100 pounds of hempseed meal is 92 pounds. Crude protein is 26 per cent of the digestible nutrients, carbohydrates 6 per cent, and fat 5.2.

The feed was found to be rather unpalatable; sheep not relish the meal in their ration.

McFadden Defends Orange Prorate Measure In Debate

EDITOR HOLDS LAW IS CLASS LEGISLATION

Contending that prorating of oranges by law is no more class legislation than most legislation since "all legislation is class legislation to a certain extent," A. J. McFadden, prominent rancher and chairman of the state agricultural prorate commission, last night at the Forum for Political and Economic Education, stood in opposition to youthful Max Knepper, editor of Epic News, Los Angeles publication, upon the debate subject, "Resolved, That the Prorate is Class Legislation and Not to the Public Interest."

Knepper spoke affirmatively, McFadden, negatively.

"The state motor vehicle code is class legislation—it controls only motorists," McFadden said. "And then there's the state building code, which controls only those who build, the barbers' code, and so on, into the field of real estate and law. And all of these codes are admittedly valid."

Helps Grower, Buyer

Regulating the number of sour, frosted, granulated or otherwise damaged oranges cannot but help both the grower and the buyer, McFadden argued. To ship too many oranges is to bring a possible loss to one's neighbor and the ruling of the courts is that the prorate is constitutional—that it is a man's inalienable right to use private property only where he does not injure his neighbor. He pointed out that the supreme court did throw out the AAA as unconstitutional but not all of it—not the portion having to do with prorating.

"We must face one of two types of government when we talk prorate," said Knepper. "We must either proceed under our present system of free competition with supply and demand, or we must adopt socialism and permit every type of business to be regulated, with all prices controlled by government."

"Under present prorate, we have socialism in an inverted form," Knepper continued. "Instead of having everything controlled for the benefit of all, we have an industrial output controlled for the benefit of a small group. Yes, I admit prorate is beneficial for the small group which has it—but we are arguing the question of whether it is class legislation and whether or not it is to the public interest."

Charges Artificial Monopoly

Knepper contended anybody benefited would be for the prorate. But he argued prorate, which stabilizes prices, is artificial monopolizing. He contended the prorate is discriminatory against a grower who does not wish to join the organization, as for example, a New Yorker who owns property here and has a 10-year contract for sale of his oranges on an eastern market. He also contended the prorate is discriminatory against the consumer as well as against one operating outside of the prorate. Unions in the present maritime strike are seeking to prorate labor, Knepper said, when they are trying to distribute work—but the shipowners call it Communism. The prorate would be unconstitutional, he said, as in the case of the New Yorker with the 10-year contract for sale of his crop, because his contract would be "impaired."

CAST FOR "WHO'S WHO" OPERETTA

"No doubt the prorate is a private help to the orange men but as a consumer, I have a right," the editor declared. "How do I know the price of oranges would not be lower on a supply and demand, free competition basis?"

Pointing to "some sad examples" of uncontrolled agricultural competition, McFadden declared the prorate is not against the public interest. He named the hay, wheat and corn crops as examples, upon frequent occasions, when upset markets play havoc with the public interest. He said the prorate is necessary as a cooperative measure to supply the ranchers or farmers with information to allow them to dispose of their crops without waste. The retail price is raised very little, if any, by the prorate policy, McFadden said. No longer is much of the crop—so far as concerns oranges—thrown aside to rot, because there are now many by-products plants, he added. But it is better to allow waste in the field than at the end of a long haul to market, he concluded.

Forum Chairman W. H. (Ted) Blanding announced that next Tuesday's debate subject will be, "Resolved, That Government Ownership Would Be the Best Method of Avoiding Depressions and Other Evils." Dr. C. J. Ruley and R.

OPERETTA TO BE REPEATED BY STUDENTS

"Who's Who," an operetta by Harold Fish and Gladys Campbell of Santa Ana will be presented for the second time in Santa Ana by the Frances Willard music department Thursday evening, Dec. 3.

The production was first presented five years ago and was hailed as the most successful musical play ever produced by the school.

Gladys Campbell wrote the musical score for this operetta while Harold Fish wrote the lyrics and libretto.

Miss Esther Jean Davis, Helen Glancy and Hubert Mitchell are in charge of the production and believe that their presentation will even be more elaborate than the first showing.

"Who's Who" is staged in a modern setting and is very humorous throughout.

The cast includes: Carol Jean Brinkerhoff as the cook; Beth Mitchell and Jean Umble as the maid, a dual role; Carol Miller as Jean; Betty Love as Betty; Genevieve Reed as Anna; Lucille Lambert as Alsa; Margaret Fields as Margaret; Dorothy Fraser as Alice, leader of the Crane House.

Boys cast in leading roles include: Bill Hull as the policeman; Kenneth Goodman as the janitor; Chester Briner as Bob; Harold Montana as Jerry; Dudley Benson as King of King's Hall; First Knight, Daryl Sherrey; Second Knight, Bob Day; and Warren McGarty as the guardian of the gates.

More than 30,000 naval officers and men receive and spend most of their pay at Long Beach, Calif. It is regarded as the "naval capital" of the United States.

C. Holmes, respectively, will argue the affirmative and negative.

JUNIOR COLLEGE FINE ARTS PRESS ADDS NEW VOLUME TO GALAXY OF RARE EDITIONS

By ELEANOR YOUNG ELLIOTT

"What I Saw in California," a re-print of what is recognized as the first complete record of life on the overland trail to California in the period of its early development, has been selected by the Fine Arts Press of Santa Ana Junior college, as the latest addition to its bright galaxy of rare and beautiful editions.

This book, written by a trained initial letter, a stag in a spirited leap, or a war-bonneted Indian.

Publication of the book was made possible by Marguerite Eyer Wilbur of Villa Calafia, Pasadena, whose interest in the College Art press is unfailing. The copious notes, the careful indexing and the bibliography were all her work. Thomas E. Willams, head of the college printing department is responsible for the layout and design. Others to whom credit is accorded include Willard E. Francis who operated the linotype machine, setting the book in 11-point Granjon type; Frank Hertzberg, who set the title page in Piranesi type; Jack H. Reed, responsible for the press work, and Weber-McCrea, binding.

History of Author

In a foreword, Mrs. Wilbur lightly sketches in the history of Edwin Bryant, and states that the object of the reprint is to rescue from oblivion, a priceless item of Californiana. Announcing that the book is Volume One of the "Calafia Series," is a short account of the legend of Calafia, so intimately associated with the nomenclature of California.

The book itself, beginning with the start of the wagon train from Louisville, Ky., on April 18, 1846, continues with a detailed account of the dangerous journey, describing camp and trail conditions, the Indians that menaced the party, the country as it was seen in the changing seasons, and all the hardships and adventures that befell the travelers not only in the months of following the trail, but after their arrival in California.

Adding interest to the book is the fact that frontispiece and initials are the work of Dorothy Smith Sides, a recent guest-speaker at Bowers Memorial Museum, where the color plates of her book on the native art of the Southwest Indians were on display. The west Indians depicts a typical scene of pioneers of the overland trail warding off an Indian attack. Initial headings to each chapter form a fascinating study. No two are alike, and each gives with a few telling lines, some bit of nature, a wheeling gull, perhaps a pine tree soaring into the air, a little coyote slinking around the base of the

Young Couple
Wed At Pretty
Home Ceremony

Assembled last night in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Mitchell, 922 West Camille street, a little family group witnessed the pretty ceremony uniting in marriage Miss Carolyn Cushing, daughter of Mrs. Nettie Cushing, 127 South Garnsey street, and Frank A. Thomson, son of Mrs. Belle Thomson, 1017 East Chestnut street.

Many tall tapers gleamed from the mantle and from candelabra arranged at the fireplace. Baskets of pink and white snapdragons and ferns completed the effective setting for the ceremony, read at 8 o'clock by the Rev. O. D. Reinius, pastor of Richland Avenue Methodist church.

Pretty Bride
Miss Cushing was given in marriage by her cousin, Mr. Mitchell. Her bridegroom was escorted by her lovely wedding ring of rose gold, fashioned with full skirt and a modish flaring jacket. Her bouquet was of white roses and lilies of the valley. Observing the tradition, she wore as the "something borrowed, something old and something blue," a blue-set ring loaned for the occasion by a close friend, Miss Frances Pahl.

The bridegroom's sister, Mrs. Jack Reed as matron of honor, was dressed in a formal frock of moire in such a delicate white tone that it was just a few shades deeper than Miss Cushing's gown. Her bouquet was of roses in exquisitely blended rose tones. Mr. Reed was best man.

Following the ceremony guests found places at the dining room table, where white and pink place cards were in evidence. Spread with handsome damask, the table was centered with an elaborately decorated wedding cake topped with miniature bride and groom figures. Ice cream rounds centered with pink wedding bells were served with the wedding confetti and other dainties.

Mrs. Mitchell, who was attended in a Copenhagen blue formal gown, was assisted in serving by Miss Pahl, who wore black. The bride's mother wore brown, and Mrs. Belle Thomson was in blue.

Intimate Group
Present were the Ralph Mitchells, the Rev. Mr. Reinius, Mr. and Mrs. Reed, Mrs. Cushing, Mrs. Thomson, Miss Pahl, Mr. Mitchell's father, W. A. Mitchell, and the bride couple.

When the newly-married couple left the Mitchell home last night, the bride wore a black frock with silver lame tunic. They have their home all in readiness at Morrison Court, where they will welcome their friends in the very near future. Mrs. Thomson is resuming her duties in the traffic department of the local telephone office. Mr. Thomson, who is now manager of a service station on East First street, formerly was employed in San Juan Capistrano. He was at Luke Field, Hawaii with the U. S. Army for two years.

The new Mrs. Thomson, a graduate of Santa Ana High school, is a member of Wrycende Maegdenu club.

Quiet Wedding
To Be Held Tomorrow

An interesting wedding service is in prospect for tomorrow in Santa Ana. Wedding Chapel, when attractive Charlotte Guyer of Laguna Beach, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank S. Brown of Cypress Drive in "Our Village," is to wed Robert E. Dunn of New York City.

Only immediate relatives of the two young people will be present for the rites, which will be followed by the departure of the bride and groom for the east. Both are identified with prominent families of the Village. Mr. Dunn is a brother of Horace L. Dunn of Amen Corner club, Laguna Beach. The family home is in Philadelphia but Mr. Dunn's business is in New York where he is a member of the brokerage firm of Kissel, Klein & Co. The couple will live in New York.

Elks' Wives to Hold
Card Party Friday

Friday afternoon will bring a monthly card party for Elks' wives and friends, who will be entertained at 2 o'clock in the club rooms on North Sycamore street.

Mrs. V. L. Motry, wife of Elks' lodge exalted ruler, and officers' wives including Mesdames William Holbe, Harold Brown, Ridley Smith, Ben Osterman, George Bradley and Donald Jerome are making arrangements for the affair.

Hostesses for the day will be Mesdames Jack Munson, John Gibson, C. V. Doty and B. T. Gibson.

Prizes will be awarded, and refreshments will be served at the close of an afternoon of cards. Reservations for the event may be made with Mrs. Motry, telephone 599 or 5287-J, or with any other members of the committee, it was announced.

Junior Ebell Society
Has Annual Holiday
Bridge Party

Scene of holiday dances Friday and Saturday nights, Ebell clubhouse peacock room was setting for another party last night when Junior Ebell society enjoyed an annual Christmas bridge event which served as the organization's December meeting.

Some of the gilded leaves which had contributed to the dance setting remained to give an added touch to last night's red and green appointments. Polynesian and semi-lux were combined in an effective arrangement across the stage.

Mrs. Crawford Nalle, president, congratulated Mrs. Herbert Stroschein, chairman of the recent formal dance, on the success of the affair. Mrs. Don Park announced that Tuesday, December 29 is the date for the annual afternoon party which will be given in the clubhouse for small children of Junior and Senior Ebell members.

Mrs. Arthur Wade, leader of the Travel section, revealed that the group will be sponsor of a program Friday evening at 8:30 o'clock in the clubhouse peacock room, with Dana Lamb as speaker.

Mrs. George Bradley was general chairman of last night's party, working with assistance of committees including Mesdames William Overhiser, John Bradley, Lee Smith, George Preble and the Mesdames Betty Smith, Betty Wiswall and Mary Porter, refreshments; Miss Helen Glancy, tallies; Miss Ruth Baker, Mrs. Paul Hales and Mrs. Joseph Knox, tables and decorations; Miss Mary Tuthill and Miss Betty Smadley, prizes.

W. R. C.
Members of G. A. R. and affiliated orders are invited to attend an open house affair tomorrow in Laguna, where the 90th birthday anniversary of Comrade Minckay will be celebrated at 6847 Foothill boulevard.

An invitation to the affair was extended members of Sedgewick W. R. C. at their latest meeting in M. W. A. hall. Since very few of the group will be able to attend, birthday cards will be sent to Comrade Minckay by some of his local friends. It was revealed that Comrade S. Kane and Mrs. Gladys McDonald, of Orange, were guests at the corps' recent meeting, for which the former gave a reading. Mrs. Geraldine Beall presided over the business session, when it was reported that $54.50 had been expended for relief work, $5 for flowers; and that 45 calls had been made.

Announcement was made that election of officers will take place at the next meeting, December 9. Santa Anans who attended the latest meeting of W. R. C. Federation No. 1, in Anaheim, were Mesdames Geraldine Bell, Lena Hewitt, Estelle Grey, Elizabeth Birkhead, Viola Fipps, Hattie Cozad, Nannie Myers, Minnie Squires, Ida Millen, Alice Milligan, Edith Scott and E. Butler.

STUDYING FOR OPERA
That Erma Baxter Owen, daughter of Mrs. E. M. Baxter, 929 Spurgeon street, and one of the city's favorite young sopranos, is preparing for an operatic career, was revealed today when it was learned that she is to study under the well-known Ceccarelli, of Hollywood.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Ceccarelli gained wide recognition on operatic and concert stage before deciding upon Hollywood as a location for their classes. They are limited to only a few very talented pupils, so the fact that the young Santa Ana soprano was accepted by them as a student, promises well for her future career.

December Wedding Plans
Inspire Pretty Parties

One of the most widely feted of the early winter brides-elect, Miss Katharine ("Kay") Blank, fiancée of Henry Vaughn, is finding that her engagement days are being made a whirl of gay activities by her many friends. This is especially true among her teaching associates who are hastening to entertain her in advance of the announced wedding date of December 20.

Miss Blank, now a member of Sedgewick McKinley school faculty, formerly taught at John Muir school, so both teaching groups have sought pleasant manner in expressing interest in her wedding plans.

Evening of Bridge
Latest in the succession of parties was that at which Miss Helen Irene Kennedy, 1240 French street, entertained last night. A member of the John Muir staff, she assembled her sister teachers and a few additional friends for a delightful evening of bridge.

Because of Miss Blank's partiality to gardenias, the hostess chose that flower to blend with her white and silver decorative motif, and had a fragrant corsage ready for her honor guest to don upon arrival. Tally cards in harmonious design were distributed for bridge. For the serving of refreshments, Miss Kennedy spread card tables with snowy linens and centered them with bubble bowls of gardenias around which small silver reindeer were grouped. White tapers in silver candlesticks lighted the pretty scene, and the all-white cake and ices of the refreshment course were served on gleaming crystal.

The charming bubble bowls provided bridge prizes won by Mrs. Anthony Stark and Miss Blank herself. To the latter went also the shower gift of sherbet cups in the crystal pattern of her choice, from the John Muir teachers.

Miss Kennedy included with her honor guest, Miss Blank, Miss Mary Alice Grimshaw, principal; the Mesdames Mary Priscilla Allen, Florence Hulselek, Edna Ingham and Stella Mueller, and a little additional guest group composed of Miss Rowena Newcomb, Mrs. Anthony Stark and Mrs. Will Hutton.

In Our Village
McKinley faculty members have figured in two delightful affairs complimenting Miss Blank. The first of these made the Thanksgiving season especially memorable for the bride-elect, for that autumn holiday dictated the appointments and menu of the formal dinner party at which the Mesdames Beryl Hatch and Emma Hasty entertained in Las Ondas cafe, Laguna Beach.

From the Village, the group returned to Santa Ana to the home of Miss Hasty, 1513 West Fourth street, where everything was in readiness for a session of bridge. High scores made by Mrs. Evangeline Stark and Miss Mary Andrews, were rewarded with pretty gifts, but this did not end the presentation, for Miss Blank speedily found herself the delighted possessor of a wide array of articles for her future home.

All members of the McKinley staff were present for this pleasant affair with the single exception of Mrs. R. H. Drake, now convalescing from a serious illness. Miss Dorothy Erickson, substituting in her school duties, completed the party with hostesses, the Mesdames Hasty and Hatch, their honoree, Miss Blank, Miss Mary Andrews, principal; Mrs. Donna Ward, Mrs. Evangeline Stark, the Mesdames Katherine Chapman, Clarice Marx, Marjory Anne Mathes and Gertrude Potts.

Torosa Past Noble Grands will have a cooked food sale and bazaar all day Saturday at 409 West Fourth street.

Wednesday Night Book Review tonight at 7:30 o'clock in First Congregational church, will feature Paul de Kruif's "Why Keep Them Alive?" to be reviewed by Miss Marian Bruner of the high school faculty. These weekly reviews are open to anyone interested.

China Expert
Talks On Ware
For Clubwomen

Any misgivings that prospective dinner hostesses among members of Women's club of Santa Ana may have entertained, were dissipated for them yesterday when they were acquainted not only with all the rules of etiquette governing entertaining, but also with the correct china, crystal and silver to be used and its placing on the table.

The occasion was the first December meeting of the clubwomen in Veterans' hall, and Mrs. E. G. Maier as program chairman, had arranged with Miss Edith Stinson, representing the china department of a Los Angeles department store, for a display of modern and beautiful china, glass and silver. The Chandler Furniture store of this city co-operated by providing suitable dining room furniture, so the display was one of extreme beauty.

China Designs
Miss Stinson talked informatively on the various favorite patterns in dinner ware, showing examples of each well established design as blue willow, Indian tree, Victoria, and such wares as Spode, Wedgwood, Irish Bleek, Dresden and Royal Doulton. Whether in china or in semi-porcelain, the specimens shown were of unusual beauty of design, as were examples of crystal. In the latter field, she distinguished between lime glass, lead glass and rock crystal, telling of the constituents of each.

In concluding her talk, she exemplified the correct serving of successive dinner courses with the assistance of Mrs. Maier, including all details of table arrangement, napery and decorations.

In advance of Miss Stinson's enjoyable contribution to the program, Mrs. F. A. Martin, club president, had asked for various announcements and for reports of the recent Southern district convention in Palm Springs. Mrs. C. H. Stanley and Mrs. James G. McCracken gave the two convention reports, bringing out many of the interesting features of the convocation from both general and personal viewpoints.

Section Meetings
In announcements of events to come, emphasis was placed on next Friday night's social section party with its 10-cent gift exchange in the G. V. Linsendard home, 415 West First street. On Tuesday, December 8, the Poetry section will meet at 9:30 a. m. with Mrs. E. G. Warner, 1615 Willets street. That afternoon will bring a benefit desert bridge party staged by the Philanthropy section in the Linsendard home. Reservations for this may be made through Mrs. Martin, telephone 1908, or Mrs. E. O. Ahern, 5128-W.

December 9 will see a representative from the club at the county federation board meeting in Garden Grove. The next general club meeting will be an afternoon Christmas party on December 15, when each member will be expected to have a 10-cent gift for the general exchange.

TRAVELERS RETURN
Santa Ana friends are happy to greet those three travelers of this city and Balboa, Mrs. Susan Ruthenford and Mr. and Mrs. Earl S. Morrow, who arrived Sunday night after four months of sight-seeing all over the nation.

In their devious wanderings by automobile, the three visited 33 different states as well as sections of Canada. Especially interesting to them was their opportunity to see the little Dionnes when they included Callander on their Canadian itinerary. The extended travels materially hastened the return to complete health of Mr. Morrow, who had suffered from a long and tedious illness.

Musical Arts Members
Hear Review of
O'Neill Play

Reviewing "Emperor Jones" by Eugene O'Neill yesterday at a luncheon meeting of Musical Arts club in the Doris Kathryn, John Swarthout referred to the play as "one of the finest of the age." He pointed out that the play is not produced as often as it might be did it not require such elaborate lighting effects and stage settings.

The speaker was introduced by Miss Ruth Armstrong, program chairman. Mrs. Leslie Steffensen, president, conducted a business meeting during which the group changed its plans for an annual Christmas party originally scheduled for the evening of December 15.

It was decided to observe the same date, but to hold the affair at noon in the Doris Kathryn because of conflicting engagements in the evening. Exchange of useful ten cent gifts will be a feature of the luncheon meeting, it was announced.

ANAHIM MEN HEAD ROTARY COUNCIL BODY

Dr. Ralph Walts and Conrad Jorgewand, both of the Anaheim Rotary club, were elected president and secretary, respectively, of the Rotary county council at the regular session of the latter group here at 6:30 p. m. yesterday.

These two new officers of the council, who are president and secretary of the Anaheim club, will serve in their respective capacities for the next six months.

They succeeded Guy J. Gilbert, president of the local Rotarians, and Ralph C. Smedley, secretary, who had served as heads of the council for the last six months.

It was pointed out by local officials that the council has extended its activities recently with the organization of two new clubs in the county, one in Placentia and the other in San Juan Capistrano. This makes a total of eight clubs now embraced by the council.

The Rev. John Brigham is president of the Placentia organization, Frank Wilson, secretary, while the president and secretary of the other club are Verner Beck and Paul Richards.

Drowsiness sent Robert Johns, Route 2, Box 277, Santa Ana, to Santa Ana Valley hospital about 1:30 a. m. today for treatment of cuts and bruises.

Johns fell asleep at the steering wheel of his car as he drove along First street and approached the Santa Fe railroad crossing there. He kept right on sleeping until his car smashed head-on into the Santa Fe watchman's tower at the crossing, city police were informed. He was rushed to the hospital by John Sauer, of the Smart & Final grocery concern.

A car operated by C. V. Bouquet, 2008 North Ross, and a truck operated by Ben Barriga, 112 Private street, crashed at Third and Spurgeon, yesterday afternoon without injuries. The Barriga truck also collided with a parked car registered to Lawrence Ribau, of Orange.

BALL & HONER TO OPEN NEW SUBDIVISION

Increased activity in the real estate market was in prospect in Santa Ana today with the acquisition by the firm of Ball & Honer, with offices at 103 E. Third street, of the last link in what now makes up a mile of first class residence property on Hollister Drive, from 17th street to Broadway Park.

Announcement that the large new subdivision soon would be opened, came from Allison Honer, of the local firm, shortly after recording of a deed today that marked the purchase of 500 front feet on each side of Hollister, William E. Croddy, local real estate dealer, sold the property to Ball & Honer, the deal having been consummated late yesterday.

"We will be ready shortly to open the new subdivision," Honer explained today, "and the purchase of the last tract on Hollister that did not formerly make up a part of the subdivision clears the way for the perfection of our original plans."

Together with the announcement of the purchase from Croddy, Honer revealed that they recently had acquired 10 acres of land that was known as the Heber Fowler property and is located just north of Santa Clara boulevard. This tract, they said, would be made a part of the subdivision.

BRIEF TALK MARKS KIWANIS MEETING

Brief talk of Dr. C. E. Paul, of Santa Ana, describing his recent motor trip to Mexico, group singing and routine announcements today featured the weekly luncheon meeting of the local Kiwanis club.

Although a delegation of between 30 and 40 were reported to have made the trip to San Bernardino as guests of the club in that city, a large group of members were on hand for the meeting here today.

In the absence of the president of the local club, R. B. Newcom, the session here was in charge of Carter H. Lane, vice-president of the local organization.

All members were urged to attend the open meeting Wednesday evening, Dec. 3, that is sponsored by the Anaheim Rotary club in that city.

"Labor Conditions on the Pacific Coast" will be the chief topic of discussion at the session, which is expected to be largely attended by members of all local service clubs and their guests.

RADIO CALL SENDS POLICE TO DOG ATTACKED BY BEES

Bees in his bonnet! This was the unusual predicament in which a big collie found himself after he mixed with a hive of bees in the vicinity of the Consolidated Rock plant across the Santiago creek from Orange.

The wild antics of the dog after the incident caused men at the rock plant to telephone the Orange police station for someone to put a speedy end to a mad dog. The call was put on the radio. Out of the jurisdiction of the Orange city police, Constable George Bartley was summoned to answer the call.

He found the old, familiar "wild party" so much heard of in police radio, was being staged by one lone, bewildered collie with bees not only in his bonnet but in all the rest of his nice yellow and white apparel as well.

When Constable Bartley arrived on the scene shooting irons ready for action, the dog jumped out of a pool of water and approached him wagging a bedraggled, once fluffy tail. "H'm," mused the officer, "to bee or not to bee?" So the constable, making up his mind quickly, picked some of the drowned and bee-drowned bees from the collie's coat.

"Everybody happy?" asked Constable with the beatific smile of a billboard filling station attendant. The collie grinned a little sheepishly, appropriately enough and everyone went home but the bees.

BICYCLE RIDER KILLED BY CAR IS IDENTIFIED

Through descriptions furnished by Constable George Bartley and their newspaper publication, the bicycle rider who was killed instantly yesterday morning on Manchester boulevard a few blocks east of Orange, was identified last night by members of his family as Uriah A. Detweiler, 59, carpenter of 728 Cypress street, Santa Ana.

Detweiler was en route to a job in El Monte, riding his bicycle, when an automobile driven by Raymond Todd, Route 2, Orange, traveling in the same direction, ran him down. Todd told California highway officers he saw Detweiler riding along the edge of the highway and believed he would continue to ride there, but as Todd drove up, the Detweiler bicycle suddenly swerved toward the middle of the highway, either because of a sudden gust of wind or because Detweiler lost control, otherwise.

Deputy Coroner Bert Casteln announced an inquest will be conducted for the victim, 72nd traffic victim in Orange county this year, tomorrow afternoon at 3, at Brown and Wagner funeral chapel.

Born at Sterling, Ill., Mr. Detweiler had lived 16 years in Santa Ana. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Nettie A. Detweiler of Santa Ana; six children, Mrs. Mary Beyer, Blythe, Calif.; Anna L. Detweiler; Lois Detweiler; John Detweiler; Benjamin Detweiler; and George Detweiler, all of Santa Ana; one brother, William Detweiler; two sisters, Mrs. E. M. Wade and Mrs. Martin Book, all of Sterling, Ill.

Funeral arrangements, being made today, will be announced at Brown and Wagner funeral home later.

NATIONAL FARM TAXING HOTELS BUREAU MEET

Hundreds of reservations are pouring into hotels of Pasadena and Los Angeles to provide for delegations from all parts of the United States to the 18th annual convention of the American and California Farm Bureau Federations in Pasadena next week, R. D. Flaherty announced today.

Flaherty said he had been informed that the Hotel Maryland in Pasadena would be headquarters for the directors and officers of the American Farm Bureau, 30 women leaders of Associated Women, 32 men and women composing the official family of the Pasadena Farm Bureau, all committee heads for the convention and the dignitaries who will form the speaking corps of the conventions.

Orange county groups will join with at least 100 boys and girls from California 4-H Clubs, and 100 Future Farmer boys, who will form the messengers and usher corps of the conventions.

In addition to the hotel reservations, it is understood that members of scores of visiting delegations have made plans to stay with relatives and friends in the Pasadena area. Arrangements also have been made for several hundred motorists to auto camp and for those traveling in auto trailers.

ARCHBISHOP OF LAODICEAN MISSION VISIT

His Grace, the Most Reverend Amleto Giovanni Cicognani, titular Archbishop of Laodicea in Phrygia, Apostolic delegate to the United States, personal representative to His Holiness, Pope Pius XI, visited the old San Juan Capistrano mission this morning.

The papal delegate had motored to San Juan Capistrano from San Diego where his party inspected the new St. Joseph's cathedral and the San Diego mission.

His Grace was very much impressed with the old mission and the grounds by Rev. Father Arthur Hutchinson, resident priest.

He was particularly impressed with the old mission chapel and the vestments worn by Father Serra, founder of the California missions. So interested was His Grace that the party overstayed its allotted time for the inspection.

The papal aide was accompanied by Monsignor Right Reverend John Cauley, P. A. V. G., of Los Angeles and Dr. Francis Hyland, secretary to the papal delegate. It was his first visit to the mission.

The party was to be guests of the E. L. Doherty resident for dinner after which they will leave to join His Grace, the Most Reverend John Joseph Cantwell, Archbishop-elect of Los Angeles, who is to be honored by his home town in Limerick, Ireland, tomorrow.

This honor is being shared by the city and state which has adopted him as one of their own as recipient of the laurels given him by the Catholic Viscar of Christ.

The Apostolic delegate spent the night at Coronado following his San Diego tour. The party will leave Los Angeles for Washington Sunday.

JAYSEE GOEDS SEEK PLACES ON MWD FLOAT

Selection of eight Junior College co-eds as candidates for the honor of representing Santa Ana on the float to be entered in the Tournament of Roses parade in Pasadena on New Year's day was announced today by Miss Zona Leck, women's physical education instructor at the college.

Candidates for the honor include: Lois Newbold, Audrey McNeil, Llewellyn Allen, Ella Lee, Virginia Scott, Lou Ella Pierce, Wadine Siler and Margaret Crowell.

M. R. O'Day, representing the Metropolitan Water District will make photographs of the eight girls later in the week and submit the pictures to a committee of well-known artists at Laguna Beach. This group will make the final selection.

Candidates to represent Santa Ana on the float were chosen on the basis of personality, beauty and charm. Because of the design of the float, the candidates were required to be a minimum of 5 feet 1 inch in height and a maximum of 5 feet 3 inches. The girls chosen to represent Santa Ana in the parade also will be candidates for queen of the float.

The four men gave up the struggle with the side door and sprinted toward the vestibule, and McDougall retreated before them, horribly aware that Dorothy sat in her car immediately in front of the building and that her mother might even now be emerging from the store door or two away.

He burst on to the street. "Pull ahead!" he yelled, waving imperatively. "Step on it! Go on—go on!"

The four men came through the bank doors and looked out from the cover provided where the stone walls of the building projected a foot beyond the entrance. Half a block away, running heavily toward them, was a policeman.

The four men darted from the bank's doorway and sped around the corner. A shot followed them, and then another, but they reached their car. Roaring, but without lights, it sped away down the dark street, Carlo Stellacci in the wheel, with familiar roads ahead.

There had been a mistake in Carlo's plans. The bank's side door was never unlocked for the Saturday evening business.

CONSERVATION SURVEY HERE IS COMPLETED

Interest in the coordination of the purposes of the Conservation Association and the California Agricultural Extension Service today had shifted to the Watsonville area, Harold E. Wahlberg, Orange county farm advisor, announced.

"We completed our technical work and tour of the various projects area here yesterday afternoon," Wahlberg explained, "and we believe we have laid a firm groundwork for the future of the projects in this section."

Meetings similar to the ones which were held here Monday and Tuesday, will be held tomorrow and Friday in Watsonville, the center of an area, which, Wahlberg said, is also greatly interested in the erosion problem.

Following the completion of the advisory conferences throughout this section of the state, the program will be continued as in the past through the local offices and under the supervision of I. B. Brown, conservation specialist, with headquarters in Berkeley.

Brown and Ray Ellis, of Santa Paula, conservationist, attended the local sessions, and today were on their way to participate in the conferences in Watsonville.

Wahlberg said that educational tours of the various conservation areas in this locality would be taken from time to time and that close touch would be kept with the needs in the section.

PRODUCTION CREDIT ASSOCIATION HEADS WILL MEET FRIDAY

Work today in the offices of the Orange County Production Credit Association was concentrated toward the forthcoming committee and directors' meetings in the farm bureau hall Friday.

S. W. Stanley, inspector for the organization, and W. D. Miller, secretary-treasurer, indicated that these two sessions would be among the busiest in history of the organization.

One of the outstanding items of business on the program of the directors' meeting in the afternoon will be the selection of a nominating committee. The latter group then will draft a slate of new officers and members of the board, and submit it to the annual meeting which will be held shortly after the first of the year.

Members of the executive committee will face the usual task of consideration of many new applications for loans.

John W. Crill, president of the association, will preside at both

DR. CARL ANDERSON TO SPEAK TONIGHT

Dr. Carl Anderson, professor of Bible at Chapman college, will speak on "The Bread of Life" at the First Christian church Wednesday evening as part of the preaching mission held this week.

Thursday evening Mr. Neal K. McGowan, state secretary of the Christian Missionary society, will give the address, while on Friday the Rev. Morris Schollenberger, pastor of the Anaheim First Christian church, will speak.

All services are held at 7:30 p. m.

TESTIMONY IS PRESENTED IN $15,000 SUIT

That Mrs. Margaret Holderman, wife of Col. Nelson M. Holderman, Santa Ana hero of the Lost Battalion, probably will be permanently lame, as the result of a fall in a Santa Ana theater February 23, 1935, was the testimony today of Dr. D. A. Harwood in the trial of a $15,000 damage suit against the West Coast Theater Company, being heard today before Superior Judge H. G. Ames.

Dr. Harwood was appointed by the court to examine Mrs. Holderman, at the request of counsel for the theater company. He said that Mrs. Holderman probably would be able at some future time, to conquer the lameness to some extent, as she showed confidence in her injured leg, but was almost sure to be lame to some extent permanently.

Plaintiff's Attorneys B. Z. McKinney and Wallace Rutherford, the latter from Napa, where Col. Holderman is commander of a veterans' home, did not cross-examine Dr. Harwood, evincing their satisfaction with his testimony, but Defense Attorney Moss made an attempt to break down the physician's testimony. Dr. Harwood stuck to his guns through a period of sharp sparring between doctor and lawyer.

The defense followed Dr. Harwood's testimony with witnesses who testified that the lighting in the lobby section of the local theater is better than that in various other theaters, in Anaheim, Fullerton, Long Beach and Los Angeles. This testimony had bearing upon the question whether the accident in which Mrs. Holderman was injured.

In addition to Crill, the present board is composed of Vernon C. Hall, of Smetzer; J. J. Denat, of Anaheim; Stanley Chapman, of Fullerton; and Walter Pollard, of Tustin.

DELEGATES OF 15 COLLEGES TO COME HERE

Chairman Vic Rowland revealed today that 15 Southern California junior colleges have been invited to attend the annual Agenda meeting of student representatives which is to be held on the Main street campus Saturday, December 5.

Student leaders from Pasadena, Glendale, Long Beach, Citrus, Chaffey, San Bernardino, Pomona, Riverside, Oceanside, Fullerton, San Diego, Brawley, Compton, and Central and Eastside Junior colleges of El Centro are expected to be present, Rowland said.

Dr. John W. Harbeson, Pasadena, will be the advisor in charge of the confab, it was disclosed. Rowland, who is Agenda chairman this year, will represent Santa Ana Junior college's students together with Betty Lee, Agenda secretary, Bob Swanson, and Tay Riggs.

Visiting representatives will register at College hall at 9 o'clock, after which a discussion session will be held starting at 10 o'clock in the jaysee library.

Leaving the discussion session, members will adjourn to the Green Cat cafe where they will be the guests of the local college at a luncheon at which Dean of Men Calvin C. Flint will act as toastmaster.

Beginning at 1:30, the discussion session will again convene in the College hall library to analyze additional problems which confront student leaders. At 3 o'clock the 1936 Agenda will adjourn.

Beggar Arrested After Warning

Joseph O'Shea, 39-year-old transient from San Francisco, who assertedly "mooched" money here once too often—officers giving him one warning and carrying out an arrest threat when they found him still "mooching" at a second location—was sentenced to a term of 10 days in county jail by City Judge J. G. Mitchell yesterday. The sentence was suspended when O'Shea promised to leave town at once. He had been charged with intoxication.

Ed Mendez, 1823 1-2 West First arrested on a drunk driving charge, was fined $150. He paid cash and was released. M. P. Wood, Glendale, paid $8 for speeding.

HALF-ACRE in EDEN

BEGIN HERE TODAY

MARCIA CAMPBELL, daughter of wealthy PHILIP CAMPBELL, known in the neighborhood as "Bugs" over the sudden disappearance of FRANK KENDRICK, a young man engaged to be married to her, was discovered. Since his disappearance, a shortage in Kendrick's funds has been discovered. With her friend, HELEN WADSWORTH, and others, Marcia is in a restaurant when there is a hold-up. Marcia loses a ring that was her mother's.

Learning Frank is in Chicago, Marcia goes there to try to persuade him to return and face his financial obligations. Before she reaches him, Frank disappears again.

In Chicago, she encounters BRUCE McDUGALL, a stranger, who volunteers a slight service. Bruce is also a passenger on the plane. Marcia talks to return home. A few weeks later she sees him again. Bruce, an artist, has decided to make his home in the suburb.

Meanwhile, TONY STELLACCI, a restaurant proprietor, suspects his brother, CARLO, of being involved in the hold-up and finds some of the loot in Carlo's home. He returns Marcia's ring. Later he threatens to turn Carlo over to the police, but Carlo escapes. Tony reports all he knows about the hold-up.

DOROTHY OSBORN, who dislikes Marcia, invites Bruce to dinner. She telephones that she is driving her mother on an errand and will stop for him.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XVIII

CARLO STELLACCI had fled Bobba Neck without considering consequences, other than that he was likely to go to prison by remaining. Neither his invalid father nor Tony had been an item in his mind; he had paid so little attention to his brother and parent for so many years that it was only natural to ignore their interest in his precipitate flight.

Carlo had paused long enough in his flight to telephone a warning to his garage employees that their secret was out. This kindness, however, was prompted only by his desire to have the two meet him in the city with certain money and property secreted at the garage. They repaid him by carrying the little hoard to New York and, instead of joining Carlo where he waited at a prayer, he did indeed appear at a moment when profane questions were being asked as to his whereabouts.

Carlo at length surmised the truth. He had been cheated. And he vanished among New York's millions for a period of meditation.

During this lonely time he even neglected his four acquaintances in the city, for he felt a vast distance for them. When, at last, he emerged from hiding, although he had never been called, the answer to any one's prayer, he did indeed appear at a moment when profane questions were being asked as to his whereabouts.

It was on a Saturday afternoon. Three of his friends were gathered ered in the apartment which Carlo had frequently visited. They were rolling dice without enthusiasm.

At a proper signal from the doorman one of the men opened the door and a fourth man entered. He it was who had acted as chairman of the last meeting which Carlo attended in these rooms.

"Well, I found out something," he said, slamming the door. "That Stellacci rat has beat it. That's why we haven't got any answer when we called his garage. The two tramps who worked for him have scrambled too, I guess."

"The four of us can do the job. One car instead of two. One man outside, three inside. What was the layout Stellacci gave us? Park at that door on the side street, he said. Come out that door, into the car, straight down that street. What was the next turn?"

They had depended on Carlo and his men more than they had appreciated. And all knew the danger of attempting the job without an easy route for escape.

They grew profane as they called on Providence to deliver Carlo Stellacci into their hands.

And then the doorman rang with the answer to their supplications. Carlo Stellacci entered. An abject Carlo. A needy Carlo.

A Carlo who knew not where else to look for funds.

WHEN the Osborn car stopped in front of the house, Bruce McDougall was ready. Turning out the lights and pulling on his overcoat, he ran downstairs, patting his pockets in a quick inventory. Keys, cigarettes, change, wallet—damn the luck! He had forgotten to go to the bank this morning and cash a check on his new account. Now he had only a bit of silver, and faced a Sunday broke. What if Dorothy Osborn cared to see a movie tonight?

But as he walked toward the car he remembered having heard someone—Mike, probably—remark that the Bobbs Neck bank was open on Saturday evenings for the convenience of shopkeepers who wished to deposit the receipts of their heaviest selling day. He'd ask Dorothy to stop at the bank; it would take only a moment.

Introduced to Mrs. Osborn, McDougall climbed in beside Dorothy and she turned the car.

"We have just one stop to make," she said. "I hope you won't mind waiting a moment while Mother gets something on Main Street."

"As a matter of fact," said McDougall, "I have an errand too, and I'll do it while you're stopping for Mrs. Osborn. I want to dash into the bank."

Bobba Neck was at dinner, and Main Street, soon to be busy with Saturday night shoppers and movie-goers, was comparatively deserted, so that Dorothy found parking space in front of the bank. McDougall helped Mrs. Osborn out of the car and she disappeared into a store door or two away, while he excused himself from Dorothy and entered the bank building.

Inside the street doors was a marble vestibule, where a stairway gave access to offices on the second floor. Beyond was another set of doors, to the bank itself, unlocked but closed on the January weather. About to push his way through the inner doors, McDougall felt back.

There was no mistaking the scene.

Four men were at another door, set in a far wall of the banking room, the side street entrance. Three were tugging desperately at the handle; the fourth, holding a gun, faced the tellers, who stood in apparent impotence at their windows, with hands raised.

In a momentary paralysis, before he could recover to act, McDougall heard a sudden and tremendous clangor from over the outside doors. One of the tellers had reached an alarm button with a cautious foot.

The four men gave up the struggle with the side door and sprinted toward the vestibule, and McDougall retreated before them, horribly aware that Dorothy sat in her car immediately in front of the building and that her mother might even now be emerging from the store door or two away.

He burst on to the street. "Pull ahead!" he yelled, waving imperatively. "Step on it! Go on—go on!"

The four men came through the bank doors and looked out from the cover provided where the stone walls of the building projected a foot beyond the entrance. Half a block away, running heavily toward them, was a policeman.

The four men darted from the bank's doorway and sped around the corner. A shot followed them, and then another, but they reached their car. Roaring, but without lights, it sped away down the dark street, Carlo Stellacci in the wheel, with familiar roads ahead.

There had been a mistake in Carlo's plans. The bank's side door was never unlocked for the Saturday evening business.

WHAT KIND OF AN INJUNCTION?

The news dispatches report that the maritime strike leaders have requested a Federal injunction against city, county and state officials to prevent them from giving protection to truck drivers who do not hold union cards.

When we read stories of this kind in the United States, it makes us wonder where we are going as to the rights of an individual to work without getting consent of self-appointed dictators of our liberties.

The very thought of labor asking the Federal Government to enjoin policemen from protecting the lives or properties of individuals is certainly foreign to the purpose of an enlightened people.

WHAT DOES THE GESTURE MEAN?

A telegraphic report states that France is negotiating a settlement of her debts to the United States. To us this looks like a gesture—that France is in trouble and wants to agree to pay a reduced amount in order to be able to borrow more.

If France wants to make a settlement in order to borrow more money, it might be all right for private citizens if they want to loan money to France, to take the risk, but certainly would not be the part of wisdom for the Federal Government to again make a loan to France, who insists on the obligation being scaled down so that she can spend millions, or billions, in preparing for war.

It seems to us that her negotiations are simply a gesture.

PEACETIME TRAGEDY

In St. Chamas, a little town near Marseilles, France, a great powder factory blew up the other day with a tremendous explosion that was heard 20 miles away.

More than 100 people were killed or injured. Every family in the town had at least one member working in the factory, and long after the blast, relatives still were wandering distractedly through the streets, seeking loved ones.

It was a deeply tragic happening, but it seems a bit ironic, as well. For the explosives those people were producing doubtless were intended to cause far greater catastrophes, in some future wartime.

And whereas France was stirred by the St. Chamas tragedy, the war deaths doubtless would be acknowledged by a shrug and a "c'est la guerre."

ENLIGHTENMENT WANTED

In Homer Chaney's lecture on, "Are We Alone With Democracy?" he made the statement, as we understood it, to the effect that the anti-picketing law passed in Orange county was an example of infringement of personal liberty under a democratic form of government.

Inasmuch as Mr. Chaney is selected as a federal representative to bring about adult education, we would suggest that he explain in detail how he arrives at this conclusion. We understand anything about education, simply make an assertion without explaining in detail how the conclusions are drawn, is not very helpful to those who are trying to learn.

The crux of the success of a government largely the proper interpretation and definition of liberty—what rights an individual should have that will be to the general welfare and where these rights come to an end.

It has been The Register's contention all the time that people should have unlimited rights when it comes to the production and creation of wealth, creation of ideas and creation of character, but they should have definite limitations as to their rights when it comes to restricting production, limiting production or interference in any way with others who desire to work and produce.

We might be mistaken in our opinions and we would be only too glad to be enlightened as to why pickets should have the right in any way to interfere with others who desire to work.

There is not much use of talking in generalities about adult education unless we can become enlightened on this key-point in our form of government. Mr. Chaney, who is on the Federal payroll, can perform no greater service to the community than to publicly explain how he arrives at his conclusions. The columns of The Register are open for unlimited space for Mr. Chaney, the director of adult education in this county, to enlighten and inform all adults who are not yet able to see his contention.

DIVORCE VICTIMS

The divorce rate probably would be cut sharply if married couples contemplating that step would stop and think that, as a result of their action, their children might end behind prison bars.

That this is not an unusual outcome of marital break-ups was revealed by Police Chief George G. Henry, Baltimore, at a recent police chiefs' convention.

According to Chief Henry, 98 per cent of the malefactors with whom he has dealt came from broken homes.

"If children get proper home training," he contends, "that knocks out the criminal tendency."

If they realized just how greatly their youngsters would suffer for it, parents would think long and carefully before destroying the normal life of children in their formative years.

TIP FOR SPEEDERS

It appears to be a hard task to rid certain drivers of the impression that they are Barney Oldfields. Fines, imprisonments, newspaper accounts of horrible accidents—none of these has been exceptionally successful in stamping out the speeding evil.

Now comes the California State Automobile Association, with a little different approach to the problem. Its members are being advised not only how risky speeding is, but also how expensive it is.

They are told, for instance, that in driving 50 miles an hour or faster, tire wear doubles; gas consumption jumps 25 per cent a mile, and oil consumption and general wear and tear increase, as compared with speeds of 30 to 40 miles an hour.

Since human beings are unusually sensitive to any argument that saves wear and tear on their pocketbooks, perhaps these California tactics may be effective on a wider scale.

Yesterday, we inadvertently wrote that Adam Smith said, "The man who will not work shall not eat." It was Captain John Smith of Virginia who made this statement.

The stores in the Virginia Colony were owned in common and some of the colonists would not take the proper interest in work. It was for this reason that Captain John Smith made this ruling.

General HUGH S. JOHNSON

WASHINGTON, D. C.—England and Germany are both taking steps to conserve their supply of food in anticipation of war. "If our sea communications are cut," says the first lord of the British admiralty, "within six weeks we should be dead of starvation."

The German dictatorship long ago began the storing of vast quantities of preserved food and last week started a program of conserving fats. That looks almost like the beginning of actual rationing of food.

This is as important to those countries as the preparation of armies and navies. In the World War, Mr. Hoover's bright young men invented a slogan, "Food will win the war." That irritated those who were driving every energy to increase our man-power and provide munitions. Only recently has it become apparent how nearly true that was.

German defeat began with Austria's collapse and the cause of that was Austrian starvation. It now develops that as early as January, 1918, the Austrian food administration was reporting "Whether Austria will be in a position to last out through February is questionable . . . without help from outside, masses of the people will be dying of starvation in a few weeks."

"Outside help" meant Germany and Hungary. But Germany herself, was in almost as bad a case. Encroaching starvation, far more than battle losses, crumpled the home front in the Fatherland long before Ludendorff's legions on the western front began to collapse.

The only things that prevented a similar collapse among the Allies were the British navy and the immense American bread-basket. England produces little more than 20 per cent of the breadstuff her people consume. The submarine campaign came so close to success that there was a good deal of anxious talk about Britain being "starved to her knees," and at one time only a few weeks food was available.

Many of the accustomed sources of food-supply to both Britain and France were completely cut off. The United States and Canada were the sole dependable and sufficient resources, and we had just had a sub-normal wheat crop. This whole nation went on rations quite as severe as either France or England.

It was this poorly appraised and undramatic contribution quite as much as any other single cause, that decided the World War. Clemenceau, Hindenburg and Ludendorff have all acknowledged this. Even Mr. Lloyd George, who has difficulty recognizing any participation but his own, acknowledges it in a kind of left-handed way in the latest volume of his memoirs—by abusing the "soldiers" from Poch down for not understanding the importance of serving the civilian population in a great war.

That is, generally speaking, a just indictment. Modern war is a struggle of economic systems and not just armies. It promptly takes on the form of a siege of nations in the new development of the "nation in arms," the morale as well as the effort of the civilian population becomes as important as the morale and effort of the armies. Starvation becomes a more effective weapon than batteries of artillery. An armed nation "marches on its stomach" just as surely as does an army. You can't win a war with a half-starved population, any more than you can with a half-starved army.

On all these considerations we are the favored of fortune among the nations. No reasonably probable command of our communications by a hostile power could starve us into submission. The possibilities of both expansion and production of food supplies here, and of conservation in their use, were proved in 1918 to be so great that our factors of safety far outweigh any threat of danger.

When the full extent is revealed of what is going on in Europe to fill magazines and granaries with unprecedented supplies of war rations, there will be some conjecture: "If war is as close as that, it is inevitable." That does not follow. This projected food storage is simply a recognition of a principal lesson of the World War—that was not recognized earlier. It is no more indicative of the imminence of war than any other such defensive armament as a new sea-coast battery—especially for beleaguered nations who cannot produce their own food. It is merely a grim recognition of reality and a prudent preparation for defense.

Little Benny's Note Book

BY LEE PAPE

Us fellows was standing around the letter box tawking and arguing about different subjects such as Christmas coming, and whether we would appreciate it just as much if it came oftener, most of us not thinking we would but feeling willing to take a chance, and Glasses Magee said, G. do you remember when we all used to believe in Santa Claws and wrote him letters saying what we wanted and everything?

Gosh, those were the days, believe me, Puds Simkins said. Holey smokes I used to stay awake all nite Christmas eve and then wake up the first thing in the morning to see what Santa Claws had put in my stocking and whether he had forgot anything I mentioned in my letter. Tawk about excitement, he said, and Shorty Judge said, Sure, those were the days, all rite. I used to believe all about the raindeer and everything, he said.

Sure, me too, I said. Gosh, that's the perfect time of life, if anybody had of told me there wasn't any Santa Claws I'd of kicked them in the shins, I said, and Sid Hunt said, Sure, me too, why do we have to grow up and learn things and spoil everything? Hay, cheese it, watch out, he said.

Meaning on account of Sid Hunt's kid brother Bert and Skippy Martin's kid sister Mildred having stopped going passed to listen to us tawking, and I winked at the other fellows, saying, Sure, that's a fact, anybody that don't believe there's a Santa Claws is so dum it don't matter what they believe.

I'd hate to catch any member of my family ignorant enough to say they didn't believe it, Sid Hunt said, and Glasses Magee said, Well I pity anybody that don't believe it, because it'll be just too bad for them when they find an empty stocking with nothing in it but the hole to put their leg in.

Aw, come on, Mildred what's the use of wasting time listening to these dum guys? Sid's kid brother Bert said, and Skippy's kid sister Mildred said, They better go back to kindergarten with the rest of the babies.

And they kept on laughing and going, making us fellows really feel dum and proving children get older every year.

taking advantage of the situation to restore long hours. Doubtless this was true in isolated instances, but the number appears to have been negligible. There has indeed been an increase in average weekly hours of employment since the termination of the NRA, but it has been chiefly owing to industrial recovery and a consequent lengthening of the work-week for workers who had been on part time. In the first nine months of this year the work-week averaged 38.6 hours, compared with 35.6 during the NRA period. The average work-week, in other words, is still below the average of forty hours a week established as a maximum by most of the NRA codes.

Thoughts On Modern Life

BY GLENN FRANK

HOMESICK FOR SIMPLICITY

The recent campaign was hardly distinguished for straightforward discussion of issues.

Both sides over-simplified matters. But for all that, it was heartening to note the decisiveness with which the common sense of the people declined to be taken in by the peddlers of simple and single-track panaceas.

Six months before the election everybody was jittery over the prospect of huge mountains of votes for this or that rabble rouser who was promising sun, moon, and stars to the masses.

When the votes were counted the amalgamated association of rabble rousers was hardly visible.

Let us hope that, for the next four years, we shall turn our backs still more decisively on over-simplified prescriptions for our ills.

No issue before us is simple. The issue of a greater centralization of power in the federal government is not simple. If we blindly throw all power into Washington we shall in time reap the Dead Sea fruits of tyranny. There are phases of our economic life, however, which cry aloud for national handling. The problem is how to handle through Washington what must be handled through Washington while setting up adequate safeguards against the age-old and inevitable tendency to abuse centralized power. No one who thinks this is a simple issue—all black or all white—can be of much use to us.

The issue of unemployment is not simple. There is no magic formula that Washington can create that will settle this problem. A vast collaboration between political leadership and business leadership on many fronts is essential. There is no potent medicine in the doctor's bag that will do the trick.

We must beware of the ancient passion for over-simplified remedies.

RESPONSIBILITY-DODGING AUTHORITY

"The girls are all going to the game, Saturday, mother. Can I go?"

"To the football game? No. You can't go. The doctor says it is bad for you; too much excitement, and the cold and all."

"All the other girls are going, and they're just the same as I am. If they don't take cold, and don't get sick why should I? There's nothing the matter with me. I'm perfectly healthy. Please let me go."

"Don't tease about it. The doctor thinks it isn't good for you, and that ought to be enough. You can do something else on Saturday."

"I don't want to do anything else. I want to go to the game." After Louise left the room her father laid down his paper and asked, "Why can't she go? I don't see anything wrong with her health. What did Dr. Bacon say? I haven't heard anything about this. What's the matter?"

"He really didn't say she shouldn't go to the game, but he did say, last Fall, that she should have quiet and that excitement wasn't good for her. I don't want her to go because I don't like the crowd and what they do there. I've heard that things aren't just what they ought to be, and I don't want her mixed up with it. That's all."

"Seems to me it would have been better then to have said that right out and not given the doctor as an excuse. Well,—"

Just then Louise returned to the room. "It's all right, mother. I called up Dr. Bacon, and he said I could go if you said so. He thought I was in good shape this year. I can go can't I?"

"Now Louise, I said 'No.' You had no business to ask the doctor. It was very bold of you. I'm sure that if the doctor knew about it he would say 'No,' too."

"You said I had to stay home because the doctor said so, and he says I can go so I don't see—"

"You don't need to see, and I don't want to hear another word about it."

It is not wise to lay the burden of a disagreeable decision on any one else's shoulders. No good ever comes of it. The children soon discover the idea and discount it. It is especially unwise to use the doctor's name in vain. His word must carry authority and exact obedience for safety's sake. Once that word has been weakened in such a way the doctor's advice, his authority, his friendliness have been rendered useless to the child, and only renewed experiences over a length of time will restore the loss.

The same thing is true of the teacher, the nurse and the close relative. It does not do to say, "You'd better not do it." "You Aunt won't like it." "Your teacher disapproves." "Your father will be very angry if you ask even." Children resent the interference of outsiders in their personal affairs. No matter how glad they are to welcome their help in times of emergency they resent their assuming authority when the decision is against them. It is unfair to use them that way, and unwise, because it is likely to destroy their value to the children.

The children will respect the authority that assumes responsibility, but they will not respect it when it dodges responsibility.

King George and Queen Mary of Britain arrived today in Bombay, India, where elaborate festivities were in store for their visit, including the formal proclamation of King George's accession to the throne and the homage of 150 Indian rulers.

With the breaking of ground for the final building of the new high school group in Anaheim, work is now under way on the completion of the group. The building to go up immediately is designated in plans as the administration building, the largest of the symmetrical group which equals any similar high school plant in the south. An extra bond issue of $35,000 was voted for this building a few months ago, but the original bond issue of $50,000 having proved insufficient to carry out the full plans as submitted by the architects.

In analyzing the landslide, don't overlook the millions who voted for Roosevelt to show what they thought of Coughlin.

Still, Hoover got more votes than Roosevelt, without the backing of the Solid South, and that wasn't a mandate to do anything in particular.

Fable: Once there was a person who couldn't make Central understand, and he continued to speak calmly and politely.

A New Deal spokesman says big shots who fought tax measures will get no "sympathy or understanding" from the revenue department. Well, who does?

Great man: One who got a majority of the votes. Incompetent nobody: The same man if he didn't get a majority of the votes.

A man yearns for a woman who understands him; a woman never trusts a man who understands her.

AMERICANISM: Denouncing the rich spendthrifts who spend to make a show; praising the government for doing the same thing.

Why blame a climber for "deserting" his old friends? The leading horse must always desert those who won't keep up. Unless our playing improves, we shall also favor a law to penalize the best bridge and golf players.

DE GLANCES

WASHINGTON, Dec. 2.—Newly ide Marine Lt. Col. James osevelt will draw $404 per month on active duty with the president. He gets $250 base pay, 10 for quarters and $54 for subsistence. Out of that he will pay a navy a small amount for food he aboard ship. Off-duty he draw nothing, pay nothing. Not even the elites of army, ry and marine officers begrudge a James the appointment. He needed by the President on trips physical assistance, and has in helping off and on for four ars without remuneration. . . . President Wilson appointed Grayson an admiral and took a to the peace conference; "Admiral Grayson stood his maiden age well."

A matter of a $1,000,000 government check, which was lost by a Civil Coast company, has been aptly hushed up. As a matter of fact it did not cost the government anything, but the company to pay several hundred dollars a bonding company to guarantee that the check would not be used before the treasury would be a duplicate. If you find it, try to cash it.

The rumors going around about illness of Supreme Court Justice Stone are generally imaginary. The disease usually confines person to bed for many weeks, is acutely painful, but rarely kills. Physicians call it bacillus enteritis of the flexner type.

candidate for a big job in the Deal worked this one: He hired a wealthy society woman to give a dinner at which he would be the guest of honor. He invited her to the dinner, and she came. He poured his appeal into her, and she was won. What he said must have been unusually promising. He got the job.

Elliott Roosevelt, Southwest vice president of Hearst radio, told an advertising Federation of America District convention: "I do not know whether to speak to you as the son of my father, or as the representative of the Hearst interests, for, as you know, they are slightly divergent."

Better syntax form would have been: "I am slightly divergent . . . All that was before son-in-law John Boettiger signed up as publisher of the Hearst paper in Seattle. "Divergent" is no longer the word. It means "receding further and further from each other." Boettiger was really selected as a friendly gesture by Mr. Hearst to reconcile his difference with the New Deal. They will be moderately reconciled.

A leading labor spokesman for the New Deal says: "The union labor turmoil would be settled in a minute if the two conflicting personalities of John Lewis and William Green were eliminated." Then he hastened to add: "Of course, there might not be much of a labor movement if they were gone."

Correction: Prof. Tugwell's name was next to last on the farm tenancy committee because all but two of the names were in alphabetical order. No slight was therefore intended.

If the German-Japanese alliance means only what it says, no one would worry much. But there are many unprinted as well as public tales about secret provisions. The official denials in the world will not stamp these out. Most disturbing is the one that Germany and Japan are agreed not to play ball with any nation which is not a party to their agreement. Only their subsequent actions will prove whether this one is true.

Rising demand to put all government workers under civil service is not causing the 300,000 emergency employees much worry. The President can blanket them into civil service, or the purely political employees can take a comparatively simple civil service exam and be called to duty. It has been done before, under Republican and Democratic administrations, and will undoubtedly be done again next year.

The housing program is heading up into the same old inside fight which has always sidetracked any efficient government plan. Significant in this respect is the return of Peter Grimm as a member of the new housing committee of Mr. Roper's business advisory council. He was Mr. Morgenthau's housing expert who departed this government a year ago.

Senator Thomas of Oklahoma will assert next session that the government has expended currency over a billion dollars through issuance of silver certificates. . . . A dark horse to be reckoned with (but probably not elected) in the house floor leadership dispute is Representative Woodrum of Virginia. . . . The Townsend organization claims only 110 friends in the next congress, of whom seven are senators, indicating the election at least had a conservative effect on claims.

What will some of Dr. Stanley High's churchmen say when they learn that one contributor to his Good Neighbor league was a brewer of national repute? . . . President Roosevelt may take advantage of a unique opportunity to send his second term annual and budget messages to congress before he is inaugurated. There is need for haste in renewing some expiring New Deal powers, and it can be done, as congress meets January 3, and Mr. Roosevelt's second term doesn't begin until January 20.
